

SOCIAL HOUSING 'DEATH KNELL'

By Jordan Harris

CHANGES to council housing regulations will 'kill social housing', according to a Cannock councillor.

The Government's housing and planning bill has been criticised by Councillor Frank Allen, who says a 'change in attitude' towards housing was needed in the near future.

The bill includes measures to extend right to buy to housing association tenants, introduce 'pay to stay' charges for tenants in council houses earning more than £30,000 per household a year which means they have to pay a market or near market level of rent.

Councillor Allen said he believes the bill will make it more difficult for the council to build new social homes in order to address its growing waiting list. He said: "When this new housing bill comes into action it will kill social housing as we know it. Those of us who believed in social housing will have to accept defeat until times improve or there is a severe attitude change towards housing from the Government."

Councillor Frank Allen

"In the last 30 years or so, housing is the only thing the Government has repeatedly sought to neglect."

"It has been persistently put on the back-burner and we will reap the harvest of that. It will become more and more difficult for us to build homes and make them available."

"It is OK for all of these rules on affordable housing being put in place from the private sector but that is really just changing people the market rate under a different name."

The Government has been accused of adding to the housing crisis with the bill as only some of the money raised is earmarked for replacement council housing, which does not have to match the size of properties sold off.

Last month, Cannock Chase Council's leader George Adamson said a reduction in social housing rents means his council will lose £75.8 million from its 30-year home building programme.

The reduction in resources means the council can build only 113 homes out of its previously promised 168, he said.

It comes as the housing waiting list which currently stands at 1,198 is expected to continue to rise, and the council does not have the demands to build more homes to meet the demand.

The Government's bill has reached report stage, and was recently debated in the Commons amid protests and concern from social housing professionals.

FATHER AND SON IN 900-MILE CHARITY CHALLENGE

Father and son Craig and Jake Bailey from Wimblebury are preparing to cycle from Land's End to John O'Groats in 12 days for charity

CYCLING almost 900 miles from the most southerly point in England to the top of Scotland – that is the task faced by a father and son from Wimblebury who are to ride the length of Britain in less than two weeks.

Craig Bailey, aged 43, and his 14-year-old son Jake are to raise cash for Sandwell Young Carers, Birmingham Children's Hospital and Autoimmune Alopecia Research UK by riding from Land's End to John O'Groats.

The bike-mad pair will spend 12 days in the saddle as they cover a total of 870 miles. Jake, who attends Erasmus Darwin Academy, in Burntwood, has launched a website – www.baileybikers2016.co.uk – to keep supporters up to date with their training and progress.

Craig said: "Jake completed his first charity bike ride when he was just six and the idea has been forming in his head ever since. He's been mad about cycling all his life."

"We have completed 1,500 training miles and have just over 100 days until we start our mammoth challenge. The longest ride we have completed in one day has been 65 miles and every week we are increasing our daily mileage." The charity ride starts on July 24.

Jake will also be supported by his mother Sarah, 42, and sister Heidi, 16, who will be driving behind them in a hired camper van.

Craig said: "It's not the distances each day that bother me – it's doing it every day for 12 days. I think over all it will be a harder for me whereas for Jake it will be a mental challenge because he is a fit teenager."

"We'll be stopping off in five bed and breakfasts and seven campsites along the way."

FUNDING

£100k available to spruce up district

A £100,000 pot of council funding has been made available to improve the Cannock Chase district.

So far, ideas put forward include resurfacing car parks, repairing signs, maintaining benches, improving street name signs as well as introducing more plants.

Cannock Chase Council's regeneration boss Diane Todd said: "Our town centres and other shopping areas are really important to us and we realise we need to invest in them. We want to make them as attractive as possible."

TRANSPORT

Plea for railway station upgrade

SHADOW Transport Minister Daniel Zeichner has called for a 'complete upgrade' of Cannock railway station.

The Labour MP for Cambridge visited the town to see the current railway station alongside leader of the district's council George Adamson.

He said he believes the facilities are in need of a 'complete upgrade' in order to support everyone that uses the service.

Mr Zeichner said: "It is clear that Cannock station is in need of a complete upgrade – both for access for disabled persons, for services and electrification. Local people want an upgrade and it is overdue."

£2m park revamp nears completion

The pavilion at Hedenesford Park

A £2.2million revamp of Hedenesford Park is nearing completion now the roof has been fitted on to the pavilion.

The long-running project is set to be finished in the next few weeks with a formal unveiling pencilled in for some time in May.

The pavilion's exterior is all but complete. Now the internal furnishings are being installed including the fittings for the new cafe.

Cannock Chase Council leader

George Adamson, who represents Hedenesford said: "We will be improving the sports pitches there as well. The pavilion is looking really good now the work is coming to an end. It will be officially opened soon."

A new eye-catching play park worth £200,000 has already been installed.

Around 25 schools, nurseries and community groups have contributed to its design. It features a 20ft climbing tower, sand pit, water feature, sleeper steps representing a winding wheel reflecting the area's mining history, zip wires, basket swings, a separate toddler area, rodeo boards and a teen shelter.

A skate park is next on the to-do list while benches and litter bins are being put in place at the moment.

The Friends of Hedenesford Park group have been heavily involved with the project. Andy Williams, from the voluntary group, said: "We are all really pleased that it is nearly done."

Extra PCSOs 'vital' in fight against terror

DOZENS of community support officers have been drafted in across Staffordshire against a backdrop of cuts across the country.

Matthew Ellis, the county's police and crime commissioner, said that in the wake of recent terror attacks it was becoming more vital for officers to obtain information on the ground.

Mr Ellis said he had reinvested more than £1 million to bring in 31 PCSOs over the last five months against the national trend, which he said had seen numbers reduced by 17 per cent across most forces.

PCSO numbers in Staffordshire have now reached 241 and Mr Ellis said his aim was to at least maintain those numbers.

He said: "We have seen, following the issues that have arisen around Brussels, the importance of getting information from the community on the ground. That sort of information can make its way very quickly to the security and special services, which did not happen in Brussels.

Released

"So much important information can be gathered through community engagement and I have been bowled over by the quality of the PCSOs and their work.

"PCSOs are problem solving and they can also stop a variety of minor instances from reaching the criminal justice system, solving anti-social and community issues before they get escalated."

Mr Ellis said the force had saved more than £1 million by reducing the amount of money spent managing and maintaining police buildings, which had released money to reinvest into frontline policing. He said: "At the end of the day no-one really cares who's running a police building and who they are being commissioned out to.

"But with this strategic property where we used to wait two weeks for a door to be fixed, for example, it's now done with 24 hours. The main change, however, has been the ability to reinvest in frontline services. I think Brussels has been a big wake-up call for everyone and the need to put money into such services. We've got this brilliant intelligence network on the ground and in the community in Staffordshire so it's important everyone works together."

New roof means club home and dry

A BOWLS club awarded more than £400 has used the cash to get the roof of its base repaired.

Essington Bowls Club, part of Essington Working Men's Club, in High Hill, Essington, won £465.17 as part of the Cash For Your Community awards 2015.

The awards, run by the Chronicle's sister paper the Express & Star and HomeServe saw £35,000 given out to 103 groups last year.

The bowls club used the money to pay towards a replacement for its roof which was previously leaking, cracked and made of asbestos.

Club secretary John Elsmore, aged 70, who has been in the role for 50 years, said: "We applied in around June last year and found out we'd won in the September.

"The previous roof was all cracked and leaking and people were worried about the asbestos.

"Now we have a completely new felt roof with wooden underlay, so it can even be walked on," Mr Elsmore added.

The club also received an additional £200 towards the cost of the roof from the parish council.

The club has also made various other improvements and renovations.

Mr Elsmore said: "We've painted the railings, added a new gate and even painted the walls around the side of the bowling green.

"Half a dozen of our volunteers have helped us carry out the work and I'd like to thank them for their special efforts too."

It's a classic – heritage group wins poll on flag

THE votes are in – Staffordshire officially has a county flag. The classic design of a gold background and red chevron will now be recognised as the county's official flag after winning a vote.

The design, which was submitted by Staffordshire Heritage Group, fought off competition from Staffordshire County Council which submitted a rival design.

Its flag, which was similar to the Heritage Group's but featured a blue banner with a golden lion at the top, was beaten by 355 votes.

A poll ran on the Flag Institute's website saw 211 people vote for the county council's design and 566 for the heritage group's.

The flag will now be added to the flag registry as the County Flag of Staffordshire.

The winning design

Just before the vote was due to go live, Staffordshire County Council attempted to withdraw its design, saying they had 'lost faith' in the process and would continue to fly their flag regardless.

But its withdrawal did not reach Flag Institute chief executive Charles Ashburner who declared the vote would go ahead anyway.

In a statement released after the final vote, the Flag Institute said: "County Flags have become an important part of our regional and national identity."

Newlife worker in tough challenge

A CHARITY employee dons his running shoes to raise cash for the cause next weekend.

Chris Fielding, community fundraising deputy manager at Cannock-based Newlife Foundation for Disabled Children, takes part in the 10k Wolf Run in Worcestershire on Sunday, April 9. Every penny he raises will go towards providing specialist equipment for disabled and terminally ill children.

Chris said: "I wanted a new challenge after the Great Birmingham Run last year. It's a great chance for me to raise money for Newlife."

He will be running in a team of four – the 10k course consists of man-made and natural obstacles over rough terrain. To support Chris and his team go to: <https://www.justgiving.com/Chris-Fielding2>

Residents can call in to obtain advice

THE Labour councillors for Burntwood will be holding their regular advice surgery on Saturday.

The session at Burntwood Library from 10am to 11am offers an opportunity for residents to call in for advice, information or to pass on their views.

Life-saving delivery is a milestone for charity

A CHARITY which provides a life-saving 24-hour service to the NHS has completed its 2,000th delivery in just over two years of operation.

Staffordshire Blood Bikes, a volunteer-led charity delivering blood and other medical products for free for the NHS, launched in January 2014.

Without the service, hospitals would be obliged to use a taxi or courier so, as well as saving lives and freeing up beds, the blood bikes have saved the NHS an estimated £160,000 in that time.

The group's 2,000th job, an urgent delivery of blood for a patient at Queens Hospital in Burton, was completed by a team consisting of rider Ben Wilkes and two controllers, Gary Steinert and Martin Huxley.

Ben said: "There is always a bit of friendly competition between riders for who gets the milestone jobs, but it just happened to be me on duty this time."

"It is always a proud feeling to complete any delivery but this one is obviously a bit more special for all of us involved in providing the service."

Charity chairman Helen Bundy said: "Reaching this milestone is a fantastic achievement for our volunteers and a reflection of their hard work and dedication."

"Our fuel bill is presently running at around £1,000 per month so we are thankful for public support and donations."

School turnaround praised by MP

Chris Gaffney with Amanda Milling

A RUGELEY school has been praised by Cannock Chase's MP following an improvement in standards.

A recent Ofsted inspection rated Redbrook Hayes Community Primary as 'good' and, speaking in parliament, Amanda Milling was joined by Leader of the House Chris Grayling in congratulating headteacher Chris Gaffney and his staff for the turnaround in fortunes.

The school had previously been rated as 'requires improvement'.

The new Ofsted report cited numerous initiatives that have been implemented, which have led to an improvement in the quality of teaching and learning.

The Cannock Chase MP, who lives in Brereton, said: "When I first visited Redbrook Hayes Community Primary School, I was incredibly impressed by the passion and enthusiasm of Chris Gaffney and all of his team, and it was clear that the school's fortunes were already changing."

"I was delighted to hear that their hard work and commitment has paid off and I was keen that this be recognised on the floor of the House of Commons." Ms Milling used the visit to Redbrook Hayes to present the head with a copy of Hansard, the formal transcript of Parliamentary debates, which includes the reference to the school.

"It was a pleasure to go back to the school to meet the headteacher to discuss the school's progress and plans for the future and also see for myself some of the really positive initiatives that have been implemented."

Mr Gaffney said: "I'd like to thank everyone who has worked together to improve the school's rating."

More events unveiled for Staffordshire Day

MORE activities for the first ever Staffordshire Day have been revealed by organisers behind the event.

Food festivals, arts and music events, special offers and activities from the county's top attractions are among the plans for the inaugural celebration of the county, on May 1.

It is hoped that the day will become an annual fixture, dependent on its success.

New activities announced include an exhibition called 'Why the monkeys came to Staffordshire' which will be held at Monkey Forest in Trentham and a fun day at Spark Community Centre in Burntwood.

Mark Winnington, cabinet member for economy at Staffordshire County Council and vice-chair of Enjoy Staffordshire, said: "We are incredibly excited about our first ever Staffordshire Day. It is going to be a wonderful day and it's great to see so many super events and organisations getting involved."

"Whether it's arts you're after, a food festival, music events, a lights show, or a day out at your favourite attraction, there will be something for you and the family."

Encourage

"So, remember to check out the website to see what's happening in your area."

Other events confirmed include A Day at the Lake, which will take place at Rudyard Lake, near Leek; Food Fest 2016 in Newcastle; and a Plant Hunters Fair at Weston Park.

The National Memorial Arboretum is offering free self-led trails, including a First World War discovery trail and an animal trail, while Holiday Inn hotels in Burton and Newcastle are offering discount prices to encourage people to spend the night in Staffordshire.

Stoke-on-Trent City Council's deputy leader is also encouraging people to join the fun. Abi Brown said: "We're really excited about all of the events and activities being planned to celebrate Staffordshire Day in Stoke-on-Trent. There's something for everyone."

The launch of Staffordshire Day follows the successful introduction of Black Country Day, which started on July 14, 2014.

Pele is heading to Bar Sport's Premier Suite in Cannock

Football legend Pele to hit bar

PELE - the world's greatest ever footballer - is coming to Cannock.

The Brazilian, who won three World Cups in a glittering career, will meet fans at a lunchtime talk on September 25.

Pele will speak about his career, answer questions and pose for photographs.

Tickets for the event at Bar Sport's Premier Suite in High Green start at £100.

The venue's owner Scott Murray said: "This is quite an incredible coup not only for the town's Premier Suite but for Cannock as a whole."

"He is the greatest ever footballer and a role model. It is just so exciting for football fans to come and meet the great man and listen to stories about his phenomenal life."

Cannock Chase Council leader George Adamson said: "Everyone knows who Pele is and he is an icon throughout the world. It is brilliant for Cannock and a real honour for the town."

The 75-year-old played 91 times for Brazil scoring 77 goals in an international career spanning 14 years.

He was a World Cup winner in 1958, 1962 and 1970.

NEWS IN BRIEF

New operators sought for Bank

NEW occupants are being sought to run a popular Cannock nightclub.

The leasehold to take on the Bank Bar and Lounge nightclub in Wolverhampton Road is up for sale at £49,500 as well as £55,000 a year rent costs.

The former TSB branch is advertised as a 'fantastic opportunity for an experienced food operator'.

New bosses would take on both the bar/restaurant area and the self-contained Bank Vault nightclub. The venue's 'upholstered seating booths' and 'built-in champagne ice buckets' are advertised as major selling points.

Company on move after orders rise

A SOFTWARE company based at a business village near Penkridge is stepping up its search for a new headquarters after a big increase in orders.

Eg Solutions, which has been located at Dunston Business Village since 2008, says it is now bursting at the seams after an extensive period of recruitment of new members of staff.

The back office software specialist saw the value of its order book increase by £2 million in the course of the year to £17.4m.

It said that this had been down to a number of contract wins.

Hundreds back Superfast call

MORE than 900 people have signed a petition calling for improved speeds of Superfast Broadband in South Staffordshire.

Gavin Williamson, MP for South Staffordshire, has so far campaigned in Himley, Swindon, Lower Penn, Codsall Wood, Trysull, Seisdon and Calf Heath where, according to national statistics, broadband speeds are particularly poor.

The petition has 914 signatures from residents from these areas.

Children make waves for sports fundraiser

CHILDREN of Sainsbury's staff in Cannock went in at the deep end for Sport Relief.

Four children of eight colleagues from the Orbital Way store raised more than £350 from a swimathon at Chase Leisure Centre.

Between them, they swam 400 lengths over two hours and 18 minutes.

Store manager Paul Davis will present them with a certificate and a prize to commend them for their efforts.

Sappers meeting

THE monthly meeting of the Cannock branch of the Royal Engineers Association takes place next Tuesday, April 5. All Sappers past or present are welcome at the Drill Hall, Walsall Road, Bridgtown, from 8pm. For more information regarding the branch contact the secretary on 01543 423319.

THE BEST OF PETER RHODES

THINGS misheard. A reader recalls her two children returning from a music lesson at primary school singing: "Edelweiss, edelweiss, bless my old man forever."

ANOTHER reader swears he heard someone on Bargain Hunt (BBC1) showing off a haemorrhoid barometer.

RESEARCH by the Royal College of Music suggests that playing the drums in group sessions can help reduce the players' depression and anxiety. And what of the mental wellbeing of the people next door...?

INSURANCE company research shows the number of speeding drivers nabbed by police last year was up 20 per cent on the previous year. Good to see one successful growth industry, innit? Kerching!

PRESUMABLY the cops are able to concentrate on hunting down motorists because figures for recorded crime are falling. But then it's no wonder, given that crime figures are shamelessly massaged to leave out anything embarrassing. For example, my computer spam folder shows that between March 13-23 there were 88 attempts to steal personal information and take money from me. There are literally billions of these attempted thefts every year, yet they appear absolutely nowhere in any crime statistics. Mind how you go.

CLAYTON Williams, aged 19, has been jailed for 20 years for killing Pc Dave Phillips during a high speed chase, just three weeks after coming out of jail on licence. This is what his lawyer told the court: "Mr Williams comes from a deprived area of Merseyside and... had a lack of education and a lack of opportunity. Lessons need to be learnt by Government that communities and young people, who are abandoned by the State, who lack opportunity and direction will sometimes turn to crime." So in this version, Williams is the victim, Pc Phillips was part of the system that oppressed him and the real villains were the politicians. What a wonderful exercise in shifting the blame. Paid for, of course, by you and me.

HOW to deal with terrorists? Christine Shawcroft, a member of Labour's national executive, says we should have a cup of tea with Islamic State leaders instead of bombing them. When her comments become public, she insisted they were "jocular." So here's the joke in full. Speaking at a Labour First meeting, she imagined a voter suggesting that Jeremy Corbyn would take tea with terrorists instead of fighting them. And here's the "jocular" punchline. Shawcroft said: "Now I mean, you know, maybe we should try it!" Don't give up the day job, eh?

Alert over fireworks left in ditch

COUNCIL and trading standards officers are appealing for fireworks found in a ditch in Little Saredon to be returned.

South Staffordshire Council received reports from a member of the public about the dumped fireworks, but when environment officers went to clear up the scene they found the fireworks had gone.

An appeal has now gone out for them to be returned, as being exposed to damp conditions could make them unsafe.

In addition, one of the boxes is thought to contain professional range fireworks, which cannot be sold to the general public and should only be operated by trained professionals.

County Councillor Gill Heath, the cabinet member responsible for Trading Standards at Staffordshire County Council said: "These fireworks could be dangerous if in the wrong hands. Because they have been exposed to the elements, this could result in them being unsafe."

"We would advise that whoever has these fireworks in their possession must not attempt to use them but should contact Trading Standards, who will arrange for their collection and safe disposal."

Councillor Roger Lees, cabinet member for public health protection, said: "Not only does fly-tipping spoil the countryside, it can be potentially dangerous too."

Staffordshire Trading Standards have offered to collect the fireworks if anyone comes forward, so they can be taken away and be disposed of safely. Call 01785 277855 during normal office hours.

Dozens of advisers at forum for businesses

MORE than 50 business advisers from various organisations were brought together at a Stoke-on-Trent and Staffordshire Growth Hub event.

They were advised at the event in Cannock on how they can work together to help businesses to grow.

The morning started with a scene-setting presentation for the Stoke-on-Trent and Staffordshire Growth Hub. Attendees then heard from Chris Plant, Director at the Chambers of Commerce, for an overview of the Growth Hub, its main aims and how it works.

Mr Plant said: "The Stoke-on-Trent and Staffordshire Growth Hub provides a much-needed service to put businesses in touch with expert help."

"The event was a great way to get advisers and business people together in one room to talk about how we can move forward with the Growth Hub."

"There's an emphasis on growth, and currently the big target for the hub is job creation. Looking forward, our approach will be simplicity, consistency and clarity as this is what our clients seek."

A brief presentation from Rob Lawley, head of international trade for Staffordshire, followed. He spoke about how the referral process works between the Growth Hub and UK Trade & Investment services, along with highlighting the changes in how UKTI will be measured.

A Q&A session followed the presentation, where delegates had the chance to openly ask the speakers any burning questions that they had.

Push boat out for free sailing

A NATIONWIDE initiative to have a go at sailing returns in May – and people are invited to give it a try in Staffordshire.

Push The Boat Out is organised by the sport's governing body The Royal Yachting Association and gives all comers the chance to get on the water for free. This year's initiative takes place from May 14 to 22.

Last year seven Staffordshire sailing clubs and centres ran Push The Boat Out events, with even more set to welcome people this year. Events can include dinghy sailing, windsurfing, big boats and yachts and powerboat rides and are geared to appeal to as many people as possible.

Visit www.rya.org.uk/go/pushtheboatout for a list of participating clubs.

Grant awarded for Alzheimer's group

A £1,200 grant has been awarded to provide entertainment for Alzheimer's sufferers and their carers.

The cash for the Monthly Alzheimer's Support Evenings (MASE) group comes from The Discovery Foundation, which helps the disadvantaged.

A DAMNING report by MPs suggests there are fundamental problems with the way HS2 bosses communicate with those affected by the planned railway.

The Public Administration and Constitutional Affairs Committee said there was a 'defensive culture' and that bosses needed to remember they 'serve the public'.

In 2015 a Parliamentary and Health Service Ombudsman identified a series of failings in communication and engagement with the tiny hamlet of Flats Grave Lane and Knox Lane near Lichfield which amounted to 'maladministration'.

Following up that report, MPs on the Public Administration and Constitutional Affairs Committee investigated.

Its chairman Bernard Jenkin, said: "There is still a culture of defensive communication and misinformation within this public body and that is not acceptable. Unless those responsible for delivering HS2 understand that first and foremost they serve the public, they will continue to be criticised for having complete disregard for the people, some of them vulnerable, who are impacted by this large-scale project."

The committee's report said what should have been consultation events were in fact turned into public relations exercises. It said the process was treated as a one-way 'box-ticking' exercise by HS2 Ltd, with no genuine two-way engagement.

In reply, Stop HS2 campaign manager Joe Rukin said: "Yet again, HS2 Ltd have been found wanting, but MPs have no problem voting for this vanity project. The whole case for HS2 has been based on misinformation, refusing to release any information that shows it in a bad light, and treating the public with a complete disregard."

HS2 Ltd chief executive Simon Kirby, said: "We recognise that more needs to be done to improve the way we communicate, and listen to, people affected by the project."

Warrior statue site 'in wrong place'

How the Saxon warrior statue, inspired by the Staffordshire Hoard, would tower over the M6 Picture: Andy Edwards

THIS giant statue of a Saxon warrior, inspired by the discovery of the Staffordshire Hoard, could appear near the M6 in the county.

But the proposal for the 114ft monument near Stoke has already been criticised, as the site would be more than 30 miles from where the hoard was found. Council bosses want to spend £3.5 million on the warrior.

The hoard – the largest collection of Anglo-Saxon gold ever unearthed – was found in Hammerwich.

Lichfield District Councillor Ken Humphreys, who represents Hammerwich, said: "I have seen what they are hoping to do and I am not happy with it being so close to the M6 where it will be more of distraction than a monument, and the fact that Stoke is the wrong place for it. But I am not in favour of it at all really. The sort of money it's going to cost could be better used for permanent displays of the hoard in Lichfield."

Stoke-on-Trent City Council, which is behind the plans for the statue, has stated the city has its own 'special significance' to Anglo Saxon history. The council has declared the bronze statue will be the 'gateway to the city' stating it could be Stoke's 'Angel of the North'.

Half of the £3.5million has been raised already. It has not been specified as yet where exactly the statue will go.

The Staffordshire Hoard is jointly owned by Stoke-on-Trent and Birmingham city councils and looked after by museum trust in both areas.

Police are called over men acting suspiciously

TWO men acting suspiciously in a residential area in Rugeley have put householders on alert.

The two men, both said to be eastern European, were spotted trying car doors, looking in houses and taking photos.

Staffordshire Police were called to Thorn Close at 4pm last Tuesday after calls from concerned residents.

A police spokesman said: "We received calls from two concerned residents from Thorn Close, Rugeley, Tuesday afternoon, reporting two males acting suspiciously in the area."

"The men were seen around 4pm to 4.30pm looking through windows and cars."

"Patrols attended and an area search proved negative. Advice and reassurance was given to concerned residents and they were advised to ring police if they see the men return."

Rugeley has been blighted by burglaries and in the last few months, especially around Christmas, although there is no connection to the latest incidents.

One of the more high-profile break-ins saw war medals and more than 30 items of jewellery stolen from a home in St Michael's Road. Coulthwaite Way, Setterfield Way are among other streets which have been targeted.

Police have also issued a warning to residents and security advice after another spate of thefts in the Cannock and Hednesford areas.

Anyone with information should contact police on 101.

Chance to net tips on sport

YOUNG girls can net sporting tips during training sessions in Lichfield this Easter.

A Netball Camp for nine-to-11-year-olds is running at Beacon Park on April 4, 5 and 6 from 10am to 4pm in the park's tennis courts.

The cost is £15 a day. Participants will need to bring a packed lunch, plenty of drinks and wear suitable outdoor clothing, including trainers.

Places can be booked in person at Burntwood Leisure Centre, High Street, Chasetown, or by calling 01543 308810.

Netball Camp is being organised by Lichfield District Council's Sports Development Team. It is funded by Sportivate and supported by England Netball.

Book club held at coffee shop

A CANNOCK coffee shop is hosting a regular book club. Mims, in North Street, Bridgtown, is hosting the next meeting on Tuesday, April 5.

The event will run from 10.30am until 12.30pm.

Wine retailer's taste of being judge

Wolseley Wine Loft's Dave Eglington

A WINE merchant from Rugeley will join a panel of judges for a prestigious industry award next week.

Dave Eglington of the independent Wolseley Wine Loft, will be among the panel at the Wine Merchant Top 100, a competition devoted to wines in the independent trade.

The ceremony takes place in London on April 5 at 'The Wox' in Fulham, close to the world famous Kings Road in London's West End.

The competition is judged entirely by specialist independent wine retailers and is only open to wines that are available from UK stock, and which are not targeted at supermarkets, specialist chains or major online retailers.

"I'm hugely excited to have been invited to judge at The Wine Merchant Top 100. To be asked to judge at such an important industry award is a real honour, especially as we've only been trading for a couple of years."

"The organisers are keen to have a broad panel that represents the wine buying public as much as those with an expert view, so my 'non-expert' status fits in really well."

Dave will be in one of several teams with two other judges and will work alongside the competition's chairman and senior judges to blind taste wines over two rounds. Wines will either go through to the next round or be knocked out to compile a shortlist of wines for the top 100 for re-tasting by the chairman and senior Judges, who will make the final decision.

The Wolseley Wine Loft is located at Wolseley Bridge. The shop is open Thursday and Friday from noon to 7pm, Saturday from 11am and on Sundays from 11am to 4.30pm.

Better deal for drivers urged over M6 Toll talks

THE Government must use talks with M6 Toll bosses to negotiate a better deal for motorists, a Staffordshire MP has said.

South Staffordshire MP Gavin Williamson has called on Transport Secretary Patrick McLoughlin to make it easier for the toll to be suspended in the case of a major incident.

Talks are taking place with the M6 Toll operators Midland Expressway over Operation Freeway which allows the paid-for motorway to be opened in times of crisis but comes at a cost of £300,000. The present deal expires today.

Mr Williamson said: "I have spoken with the Secretary of State for Transport regarding this deal which frankly I do not think offers the best of deals to the taxpayer."

"But what is more concerning is that the levers to open up the M6 Toll in the case of a major incident are too difficult. I am still hammering home to him that the structure is not the right one and we are not getting value for money for the West Midlands economy."

Currently the Transport Secretary has the power to suspend tolls temporarily on the M6 Toll. West Midlands Police and Crime Commissioner David Jamieson has suggested that power be transferred to local politicians, the police, or Highways England bosses in the West Midlands.

Agreement

Mr Williamson added: "The whole system is too bureaucratic and takes too long. Something has to be done to get the West Midlands economy flowing when there is a major incident so Staffordshire, the Black Country and beyond can benefit."

Mr Williams had previously taken the extraordinary step for a Conservative MP of calling for the M6 Toll to be nationalised.

An M6 Toll spokesman said: "Operation Freeway is an agreement which allows tolls to be temporarily suspended on the M6 Toll in the event of a major failure of infrastructure on the strategic road network in the West Midlands."

"The original agreement for Operation Freeway will end on March 31, 2016 and Midland Expressway Limited is already engaged in positive dialogue with Highways England and the Department for Transport about extending or renewing this agreement." The M6 Toll has been put up for sale by the banks that own it in a bid to get back the £1.9 billion they are owed.

Men united for cancer march

Jeff Stelling with Jez Moxey, Graham Turner, Matt Murray, Russ Green, Ben Rowlings and Alan McNally

DOZENS of football fans joined Sky Sports anchor Jeff Stelling on a 22-mile trek through the West Midlands on the latest leg of his Hartlepool to Wembley fundraiser. It was the 61-year-old's five marathon in five days.

Fans from various Midlands clubs joined him in his Men United March to raise money for Prostate Cancer UK, and many were sporting their colours.

There was plenty of gold and black on show, some blue and white stripes, a smattering of Wal-sall red, as well as some claret and blue and Stelling spoke to every single one of them, as passing cars honked their horns in support.

Stelling was also joined by Wolves Chief Executive Jez Moxey, club doctor Matt Perry – who was treated for prostate cancer two years ago – and former goalkeeper Matt Murray.

Many walkers had been affected by the disease in one way or another, including former Villa and Bayern Munich striker, Alan McNally, now a Sky pundit. One of the most inspirational participants was paralympian Ben Rowlings, who traversed over stones and mud down by the canal in his wheelchair.

The 19-year-old from Newport is the 800m European record holder in the T34 class for athletes with cerebral palsy.

NEWS IN BRIEF

MP's plea over power station

CHASE MP Amanda Milling called for the government to look at turning Rugeley B Power Station into a gas-powered station once it closes later this year.

Speaking during a debate in the House of Commons, she asked what measures were being taken to encourage the development of gas-fired power stations on such sites.

Ms Milling said the existing infrastructure with national grid connectivity and a highly skilled work force meant the new technology could be brought straight in.

Holiday weekend injuries on the M6

MOTORISTS faced traffic chaos after a crash closed part of the M6.

Two people were injured in the collision involving three vehicles.

Emergency services were called at 9.20am on Friday to the crash on the northbound side between junctions 13 and 14. Two lanes were closed as a result. It caused delays of an hour.

Meanwhile, two people were taken to hospital and drivers faced delays of up to half an hour after a five-car smash shut the same motorway on Monday. It happened northbound between junctions 14 and 15 at 12.20pm.

Make a song and dance for sessions

PEOPLE living with dementia and their carers are being invited to a sing and dance event next month.

Creating a Song and Dance (for You) will resume in Cannock on April 12 from 1.30pm at St Barnabas Community Centre, Hampton Street.

Sessions offer service users and their carers a chance to meet and socialise and engage in an activity with their partner or loved one in a safe and supportive environment, rekindling interests and connections.

Acts announced for annual Blues festival

DATES have been announced for the annual Stafford Blues Festival taking place at Lower Drayton Farm, Penkridge, from September 1 to 4.

Basement for £70m? I'm in the wrong job

MY first reaction to reading about tycoon Robert Beecham's plans for a £70 million underground basement in Primrose Hill, central London, was that I must be in the wrong job.

The application, approved by Camden Council, includes a Roman bath, juice bar, and room to store his cigar collection. And, according to the reports, Mr Beecham has made his money out of Star Wars bubble bath.

My second thought was about why people go to these lengths just for the sake of living in central London.

You would think somebody enterprising enough to make billions out of Darth Vader detergent would have the imagination to realise that there is life north of the Watford Gap, where there is also cleaner air and plenty of space to build as big a cigar room as you could possibly want.

But then I read that the project will cause noise and disruption for Jamie Oliver. In that case, bring on the bulldozers.

THERE have been a lot of changes to West Bromwich in recent years. Most of them positive.

Yes, there was the disastrous Public arts centre, which in reality became a very expensive public toilet, but that was years ago, and it at least looks like lessons have been learned from that debacle.

And the New Square shopping development is a prime example of what can be achieved when local government works with retailers and developers, and gives the people what they want, rather than what it thinks they should want.

However, one thing that has never been addressed is the dreadful road layout. One-way systems, no-entry signs, no-left turn, no-right turn.

Every time I have been down there in the hunt for the very limited number of free, on-street parking spaces – and wild horses would not make me pay for car parking – I have become lost in the nightmarish road system.

And more often than not, I seem to end up by the bus station.

Have I broken any traffic regulations? I hope not, but in all honesty, it is possible.

Anyway, the council has now decided to undo much of the good work by installing a CCTV camera on one of the bus-only roads. It will no doubt prove to be a gold mine, raising a fortune from all the confused motorists, but I'm not going to be one of them. I think I will be steering clear of West Bromwich for a while.

MEMORY like a sieve, me. Completely forgot all about Earth Hour on March 19, when we were supposed to turn out our lights as a gesture towards fighting global warming. Never mind, did mine between 1am and 2am on Sunday, to mark the start of British Summer Time. Better late than never.

Orkambi, drug that transformed Carly's life and may help others

Carly has been undergoing treatment since she was a child

Carly Jeavons meets Chancellor George Osborne in Whitehall

Trial drugs turned Carly's life around

Carly Jeavons says a trial drug has given her back her life, PETER MADELEY hears she wants others to benefit as well

STRUGGLING to breathe and suffering from crippling pains and exhaustion, Carly Jeavons was faced with the daunting possibility of losing her home.

Having being diagnosed with cystic fibrosis (CF) at three days old, she had long been used to an exhausting daily routine of medication and exercise.

As a youngster she had a vasoprost surgically implanted in her chest, which helps medics intravenously administer medication without constant injections, then at the age of 17 she was diagnosed with CF-related diabetes.

Each day, Carly had to take 90 tablets and put herself through a gruelling two-hour stint of physiotherapy just so she could lead anything resembling a 'normal' life.

Deteriorate

But in October 2011 the mother-of-one's health started to deteriorate when she returned to work following the birth of her son, Corey.

"I was completely exhausted all the time and my body couldn't cope," said Carly, from Woodsetton, Dudley. "I started to need more regular, unplanned IVs – which had to take place in hospital as I didn't have the strength to do them myself at home."

"At one point I had to take three months off work due to the numerous IVs, oral antibiotics and steroids I had taken, but nothing made any difference."

Carly says she tried a number of new drugs, all of which had 'terrible side effects'. Then a new IV programme led to an allergic reaction, while she began to suffer with a seemingly permanent chest infection. Her lung function was down to 44 per cent.

"My options were running out," she said.

Carly Jeavons, who has CF, pictured with her son Corey, 5, at home in Woodsetton, Dudley

"The chest infection meant my joints had become so inflamed that I couldn't lift my arms or legs and my mom or fiancée would have to physically get me out of bed and dress me."

"It got to the point where I couldn't make it downstairs at all. I was having stomach blockages, my diabetes was getting more difficult to control and daily activities that were once normal were becoming increasingly difficult."

"I would get up wishing the day away because I couldn't wait to go back to bed at night. I couldn't plan anything because I never knew whether I would feel up to it. And if I did, I had to plan the next few days after so I could recover. Small luxuries such as going for a meal with friends became impossible."

Carly says she reached her lowest ebb. Her mental health began to deteriorate as she realised she was struggling to cope with life.

She started to face up to the very real possibility she was no longer capable of holding down her job.

"That would have meant losing my home," Carly said. "I always managed to maintain a normal life, always worked hard and both my partner and I provided a lovely home and life for our family. But I feared was all about to change."

Just when all seemed lost a glimmer of hope appeared. During a stint as an inpatient at the CF Centre in Dudley, she was told about a new drug called Orkambi that was being put through clinical trials.

The drug – a combination of two treatments – had been developed to thin the thick mucus that builds up on the lungs as a result of CF.

Just five places were available on the trial, but following a test Carly was accepted. "People might think it was a risk getting involved in a trial," said Carly, aged 29. "But I never gave it a second thought. I was desperate. By that stage I would have done anything to feel better."

For the first six months of the trial Carly said she didn't know whether she was on the active drug or a placebo. Then in March 2014 she was rolled onto a second phase of treatment where she was given the active drug. Within weeks her life had been transformed.

Her demanding physio routine halved, her lung function increased and the chronic pain in her joints subsided, meaning she was able to regularly go to work.

The number of chest infections dramatically decreased, while the strength she regained allowed her to administer her IV antibiotics at home. She no longer required regular visits to hospital and was able to exercise again.

"Right now I am in the best health I have ever been in," Carly said. "I can be a working mom without being exhausted, something I would not have thought possible."

Relief

"The biggest relief is I don't worry like I did before. I still get poorly but I recover much better than I used to. The treatment has taken a massive weight off my shoulders."

Buoyed by her own success with Orkambi, Carly now campaigns on behalf of the Cystic Fibrosis Trust calling for the NHS to extend clinical trials.

Her story prompted a House of Commons debate after her cause was taken up by Dudley North MP Ian Austin. Last week she took the fight to Downing Street where she handed in a 15,000-signature petition and received the backing of Chancellor George Osborne.

Carly said: "Cystic fibrosis care has long been about managing decline, instead of fighting the condition at the source. But thanks to new treatments people living with cystic fibrosis will have the opportunity to experience real changes in how they manage their condition."

The Cystic Fibrosis Trust has published an open letter to Vertex Pharmaceuticals, the manufacturer of Orkambi, urging it to work with the NHS towards a solution.

It is estimated that 50 per cent of the 9,000 CF sufferers in the UK could benefit from Orkambi.

Storm Katie gives region a bank holiday battering

CARS were left stranded, roads flooded and events cancelled as Storm Katie battered the West Midlands.

There was torrential rain and even snow across parts of Staffordshire in the Black Country as the region was hit by the severe weather.

Large parts of the country suffered - with heavy rain and winds of up to 106mph hitting the Midlands and southern England.

The M6 was closed between Junction 14 and 15 near Stafford on Monday morning, as water flooded the carriageway from fields.

Initially just the northbound carriageway was affected, but as the flood spread, the southbound carriageway also had to be closed.

A gully cleaner was sent to clear drainage channels in the area so that the motorway could be reopened after the water drained away.

Waterlogged

Hednesford Town's National League North home game with Worcester City, which was due to take place at 3pm on Monday was cancelled due to the weather.

An inspection was held in the morning at Keys Park, and the match was postponed due to the pitch being waterlogged.

A post on Hednesford Town's official Twitter account said: "Following a pitch inspection at Keys Park our game against Worcester City has been called off due to a waterlogged pitch."

The Museum of Cannock Chase was also hit by flooding.

Beth Cooper, 20, museum attendant at The Museum Of Cannock Chase, said: "The flooding was fairly bad. It was starting to come up to the steps of the museum."

"We couldn't open, which was fairly surprising. We've had flooding before but not on this scale. We've never had to delay opening before."

"We were open by 12.30pm, so it took an hour or so to clear. We had to unblock the drains, there was a lot of sweeping and manual work to get it

Snowy scenes in Sweetbriar Way, Cannock Picture: Mark Hands

Flooded - the M6 between junction 13 and junction 14 at Stafford cleared. There's quite a lot of debris left and a lot of mud to clear up.

"We're just happy we could open for people on the bank holiday."

Penkridge Market was also closed due to the weather.

Walsall Football Club postponed an open training session due to adverse weather conditions. The promotion-chasing Saddlers squad were due to train in front of supporters at the Banks's Stadium on Monday.

A family fun day, which was due to run alongside the training session, went ahead as planned, as well as a meet and greet event with players. West Midlands and Staffordshire fire crews rescued several stranded motorists after being inundated with calls to flooded roads between 5am and 7am on Monday. Most had also been hit by water coming off nearby fields.

One man was rescued from his car on the main Wolverhampton to Kidderminster A449 road near Whittington Manor in Kinner by firefighters from Brierley Hill after the Ford Mondeo cut out in 8in deep water. A driver had to be towed out of a flood in Warstone Lane, Stafford, at 6.12am.

8 Refreshing to read this portrayal

HOW refreshing to read, in the Chronicle, an article on Jeremy Corbyn portraying him as a true man of the people – with local connections.

So much hostile vitriol has been directed at him by the Murdoch (Tory) press, misrepresenting his politics, even using downright lies.

For example, to suggest that Corbyn's policies, if implemented, would compromise the defence and security of this country is absurd. Perhaps N M Cope believes what he reads in the right-wing newspapers ("Corbyn does little for area", March 24).

The destabilisation of the Middle East has contributed to the rise of evil Daesh and the present terrorist threat and recent atrocities in Paris and Brussels.

Corbyn has always opposed such damaging interventions by the West, which do compromise the security of this country.

Spending cuts have eaten into our society

WHY don't we reasonably expect David Cameron's 'We're all in it together' comment to be literally true?

Whenever a recession comes along and various groups of people are faced with public spending reductions, there hardly seems to be practical expression of this motto. This quote could surely imply voluntary contributions for well-earning people?

Government cuts have progressively eaten into the bones of society. Yet disabled people need to get through each week without their health being endangered and children's services' cuts of £2.1 billion in five years need restoring to avoid more poverty, according to figures from the Children's Society.

Prison officers have been reduced by one third, and bedroom tax payers face a national shortage of flats. Those are arguably even more important than the desire of high earners to buy a more attractive house or investing extra ways to their own benefit in the current situation?

Nobody has to be a St Francis to realise that sharing things out better during certain times is possible. Some people pass on their winter heating allowance.

The Government has acted on the Living Wage, and past increases for people with disabilities, but one third of the planned cuts within four years are disabled people including Parkinson's disease and autistic children.

Clarity and certainty are crucial

IN a Budget statement perhaps more notable for what it left out, George Osborne has confirmed reductions to Personal Independence Payment. However no additional welfare cuts have been announced.

As a charity founded long before the creation of the welfare state we know only too well the important role it plays in supporting those that cannot afford a basic standard of living.

It is welcome that the Chancellor has not announced any new explicit reductions in this budget. However we are concerned about the impact that the changes in Personal Independence Payment will have on those living with an illness or disability.

What is always crucial to those who are struggling is the need for clarity and certainty. Anyone wanting to know what help they may be eligible for can visit us at www.turn2us.org.uk

Who do you trust to run the economy?

LABOUR Councillor Mr Witton should have a spring in his step with the resignation of Iain Duncan Smith. He should also be happy they have hit the buy to let landlords.

His belief is that the electorate will punish the Conservatives over punishing the most vulnerable. In Councillor Witton's own words he thinks they have the monopoly on care. Surely you have to ascertain their requirements as there are to many variables to physical and mental health. PIP was to tailor their individual needs.

Labour installed Atos, a French healthcare company, to work for DWP to move disabled people "off benefits and into work". Both parties have struggled to find a solution to a £36bn bill. Which party would you trust to run the economy?

Spineless followers care little for Britain

OUR vainglorious Prime Minister and the other shamelessly self-serving lap dogs care little about this country's past or its future.

As threatened by their 'paper tiger' of a leader, they typically fall into line like lambs to the slaughter.

They are a spineless lot, latterday Vicars of Bray, who, even on a matter of returning the birthright of the people of this country to a sovereign nation, deign to hold their tongues. One can only hope that at least a few of these honourable members might, for once, on this matter of great importance, find the strength to put their country first.

No idea of lower classes

IS George Osborne's idea of being Chancellor to throw a controversial issue to the electorate and if they don't like it change your mind? He has eyes on being PM, but like many others, has no idea how we lower classes live. They emerge from their public school cocoon and think they know what is good for us. But many of the lower classes vote for them because they think they are something they are not.

BRERETON AND RAVENHILL NEIGHBOURHOOD PLAN

Brereton and Ravenhill Parish Council is consulting on our Neighbourhood Plan. This is an important document that will help shape the future of the parish. Do you have ideas on how the parish should develop and on what in it should be protected? How could design of new buildings be improved?

Which of our existing buildings need special protection?

Which areas of the parish need special protection?

Which of our green spaces need special protection?

How could public transport be improved?

Are there any other things that could be done to improve town and country planning in Brereton and Ravenhill?

Please let us know your views including, if you feel like it, your reasons for them by contacting

- Cllr Paul Fisher, at 55 Birch Lane, Brereton, Rugeley, Staffs WS15 1EJ; or

More than 200 cases of scarlet fever in region

Centre's fitting fundraiser

Part of the group who took part in the Combatathon at Burntwood Leisure Centre to raise money for Sport Relief

A LEISURE centre raised more than £400 for charity as part of a group Combatathon.

Visitors to Burntwood Leisure Centre came together to raise money for the BBC's Sport Relief on March 18.

Bridget Foden ran the event, which involved two hours of combat workout.

Rachael Harwood, sales and marketing for the leisure centre, said: "It was all fancy dress and all very light hearted. Everybody was really generous. We've had comments back on how much everybody who took part enjoyed it and it's something we'll look at doing again."

Thirty people took part in fancy dress, wearing different kinds of sportswear including tennis, rugby and boxing gear.

Councillor Andy Smith, Lichfield District Council's cabinet member for leisure and parks, said: "Staff, members and customers have really thrown themselves into this charity challenge."

The leisure centre also ran a cake sale, a sweepstake and a gym challenge. Funds have already topped £400, with money still flooding in.

MORE than 200 cases of scarlet fever have been confirmed across Staffordshire, the Black Country and the Wyre Forest area since September, new figures reveal.

It comes as Public Health England reported that the total number of children diagnosed with the disease in the country was at a record high.

Doctors say there has been a steep increase in the number of cases with 6,157 new cases confirmed in England since the season began in September – up from 5,061 in 2015. But in the West Midlands region, the overall number has decreased slightly with 220 confirmed cases, compared with 225 during the same period last year.

Some areas have seen a drop in the number of cases of the contagious condition while others have reported an increase.

Compared

Scarlet fever is caused by the Streptococcus pyogenes bacteria and results in a distinctive pink-red rash.

In Cannock, there has been a rise in the number of cases with eight youngsters falling ill – up from three in 2015 – but the number has dropped in Stafford with two cases this year compared with 14 last year.

South Staffordshire has seen the first cases for two years with two youngsters diagnosed since September.

Walsall has seen a rise in the number of cases with 30 youngsters going down with the condition since September – up from 23 last year. There have been 42 children diagnosed with scarlet fever in Wolverhampton, up from 30.

Dr Theresa Lamagni, from Public Health England said: "Individuals who think they or their child may have scarlet fever should seek advice from their GP without delay as prompt antibiotic treatment is needed. Symptoms usually clear up after a week."

Cloudy2Clear Windows – Service With A Smile!

It's been a crazy few months for Cloudy2Clear Windows. The company which specialises in repairing windows which are steamed up, broken or damaged by replacing the panes – not the frames has grown rapidly as homeowners take advantage of their services.

Managing Director Brian Stanley feels that it's all about service. "Our product is simple. If your double glazing is misted up we can replace the glass at a fraction of the cost of a new window, in any type of frame, and with a new 5 year guarantee. But it's not just about saving people money, although that obviously helps. Many tradespeople have struggled since last year and I honestly feel that during the good times a minority perhaps didn't focus on customer care as much as they should have done.

We make sure we turn up when we say we will, do the job the customer requires and leave their house as clean as a whistle. I often get comments back from customers on how they really didn't expect that sort of service which, in a way, is very sad for the service industry as a whole."

Cloudy2Clear service Wolverhampton and the surrounding area and Brian is finding that his approach is a major factor in his success. "The truth is that it's not just the personal satisfaction that I get from doing a good job but also it makes good business sense. I get a huge amount of business from friends and family of people

I've done work for, which just goes to show how much a little bit of effort is appreciated."

So, if your windows are steamed up, broken or damaged give Brian a call for a free quotation on 0800 61 21 118 and he'll be happy to help!

School marks opening of new college

Guests from the local and wider community attended the official opening at Abbots Bromley School

ABBOTS Bromley School has celebrated the official opening of a new international college and sixth form centre.

ABIC - Abbots Bromley International College - was opened on March 19.

St Mary's, which opened its doors to girls only, in 1870, has undergone complete remodernisation creating a base for teaching and learning facilities fit for the 21st Century. It now contains Meynell Lowe House, a first-class boarding facility heralding the first cohort of boys to Abbots Bromley School, common rooms, dining facilities, classrooms with state of the art technology and relaxation areas.

The new Alice Mary Coleridge International Conference Room has the latest SMART Claas technology.

This has transformed the learning environment for future generations of students and their teachers and is a key milestone in the history of the school.

Guests from the local and wider community were joined by the Rev Canon Bill Weaver, former Provost of the Woodard Schools, Midland Division. Executive head Mrs Musgrave said: "The school is delighted, the longest-serving member of domestic staff, of sixty years, officially opened the college with the cutting of a ceremonial ribbon. Mrs Margaret Ashmore joined the school in the 1950s when it was a very different place from which it is today."

Mrs Musgrave expressed her pleasure at the growth of the school and the energy that the international dimension has brought with it. "We have musicians, scientists, mathematicians and artists from all corners of the globe," she said.

"Everyone is delighted with their new school building."

Protecting assets is topic of talk

The Ridwars WI

BEN Stephens, who provides legal and financial services, was the speaker at the February meeting on 'How to protect your Assets'.

Mr Stephens had a career in industry and education prior to becoming a para-legal specialising in estate planning.

He explained how putting one's estate and property into a trust was like 'putting a wrapper' around one's assets.

Trusts today will last for 125 years and can be passed down the generations, and also, once in a trust, one still has access to the money. Another big issue is a 'Lasting Power of Attorney' where an incapacity may make it difficult to manage one's own affairs and consideration should be given to appointing someone LPA for property and finance and also health and welfare.

Mr Stephens judged the competition 'A treasured item you inherited', won by Jeanette Roberts.

A draw was made for a bursary to Denman College and Mary Meddings was the successful candidate.

The Ridwars birthday party has been booked for April 14 at The Conservatory, Curborough, with entertainment by Kate's Party.

The next coffee morning is on April 6, at the village hall, from 10.30am to noon. A St. George's Day tea will be held on April 21, from 3-5pm.

The next WI meeting is on April 19, when Roger Hallwood will speak on 'Trees at the National Arboretum'.

Find proved a red letter day for June

June Pickerill with Lynne Tuckley President, S I Cannock & District

JUNE Pickerill gave a fascinating talk on 'one and eightpence in my pocket'.

She told of her ancestor John Pickerill and the incredible good fortune she had in discovering some previously unknown letters.

It started when June was clearing out the home of an elderly aunt and found a rusty old tin, discovering in it nine letters, written from 1853-1864. They told of John's adventures as he left Hednesford and travelled to Australia in search of a better life. With just one and eightpence in his pocket he left behind everything he had known including his pregnant wife, Sarah and even changed his name on arrival, becoming known as Pickering. Although his story ended sadly, his family prospered and he left behind his wife, two sons and daughter who began a new branch of the Pickering/Pickerill family.

At a reunion in 2005 which June attended, the family had grown to the extent that more than 200 Australian descendants of John and Sarah were able to attend and meet up with the English relatives who were completely unknown to them beforehand.

Flower arranging inspiration

CANNOCK WI welcomed June Jukes for a flower arranging demonstration.

June's arrangements and accompanying talk had been based on themes taken from a 16th century book of old sayings, which also gave details of all the saints days in March.

The first arrangement, winter/spring contained white stocks representing snow, and the soft blue hues of perfumed hyacinths for spring.

A leek was the focal point for an arrangement to mark St David's Day.

A fun element was introduced with an Easter egg in a wreath, and chickens in an egg box for two more table centre-pieces for an Easter celebratory meal.

After the vote of thanks, chairman Helen raffled all the arrangements as prizes.

The next meeting is at 10am on April 14 at St Luke's Church Hall and will include the Annual General Meeting.

Discover the story behind Hoard find

Visitors can dress like an Anglo-Saxon in the Staffordshire Hoard exhibition at Wednesfield Academy

STAFFORDSHIRE Hoard enthusiasts can relive the story of the find at unique exhibition in Wolverhampton.

The exhibition - Treasure: Discovering the Staffordshire Hoard - was developed by Staffordshire County Council's museums team and runs at Wednesfield Academy until April 10. Featuring high quality replicas of some of the treasure, video footage, and interactive displays, it will retell the story of the world's largest ever discovery of Anglo-Saxon treasure.

Visitors can try their hand at detecting for treasure, cleaning a piece of the hoard, or simply dressing up like an Anglo-Saxon would have done in the 7th century.

County councillor, Ben Adams, cabinet member for Learning and Skills said: "This is a fascinating exhibition that has been touring the county for the last three years, taking the story of the Staffordshire Hoard out to many local communities."

The exhibition, funded by the Heritage Lottery Fund, was launched in August 2013 and will continue to tour Staffordshire and the West Midlands until the summer.

It will be open at the academy on select days and will include a series of Anglo-Saxon re-enactment events.

Nothing is impossible says new fire chief

"IT takes hard work and effort and you need to put all of that into it. But do you know what, there's nothing that's impossible."

These are the inspirational words of new Staffordshire fire chief Becci Bryant who has spoken for the first time since being appointed to the role. Her promotion makes her the UK's first female fire chief to rise through the ranks.

By Jack Avery

The appointment of Ms Bryant also means that two of Staffordshire's emergency services are being run by women, with Jane Sawyers heading up Staffordshire Police.

This makes Staffordshire the first region in the UK able to boast such a fact, something Ms Bryant has hailed as 'absolutely fantastic'.

She said: "I was delighted when Jane got the position, really really pleased. It's absolutely fantastic to have two emergency services that both cover Staffordshire being led by women."

"I hope that between us we're really able to show young girls and younger women who are really thinking about what they want to do in terms of their working life that actually you can dream big and you should dream big. It takes hard work and effort and you need to put all of that into it but do you know what? There's nothing that's impossible. Except me becoming an astronaut which is what I always wanted to do."

"One of the things that I think is really important is demonstrating the difference that women make because sometimes that difference gets missed."

Ms Bryant takes up the role of Chief Fire Officer on April 18.

She is replacing outgoing chief Peter Dartford, whom she described as having made a 'phenomenal' difference.

Inmate, 23, freed after being kept in too long

A PRISONER has accidentally overstayed his welcome at a Staffordshire jail – after officials forgot to release him.

Ashley King should have been freed from Oakwood Prison in Featherstone on February 8 but was still behind bars 30 days later. The 23-year-old was finally released, with an apology, on March 15.

He walked free after the mix-up was spotted by a member of the administration staff.

They make regular checks 14 and two days before the projected release date of an inmate in case extra days have been added to the sentence for misbehaviour while held behind bars.

But this time the alarmed official realised that the jail had forgotten to take into account the amount of time King spent in custody on remand while waiting for his case to be resolved in court. This is always counted as part of a prison sentence.

The prisoner had been given a 12-month sentence after being convicted of two charges of assaulting a police officer as well as causing criminal damage and stealing a bike.

Mr Sean Oliver, deputy

By John Scott

director of HMP Oakwood, which opened in 2012 and has space for 1,600 inmates, said: "Our official review suggests the period this prisoner served on remand had not been served as part of his sentence. He was released as soon as this came to light through the checking process. Such incidents are rare but we are not complacent and are investigating this case to understand why this happened."

Earlier this year a 40-year-old prolific burglar who hit national headlines after falling asleep on a victim's sofa was found dead in his cell at HMP Oakwood.

Scott Tinsley – jailed for 40 months last year – was found unresponsive on January 3. There are no suspicious circumstances.

Council delivers a boost to couriers

Andy Evans, managing director EDS Couriers and Councillor Gordon Alcott

A CANNOCK firm that employs more than 100 people has been allowed to expand after fears it would have to move out of the area.

EDS Couriers was outgrowing its base on Fairway, Bridgtown and contacted Cannock Chase Council to help them find bigger premises. Despite fears, they have to move away from the district, business bosses at the council stepped in to help them find a site at the former TNT site in Wimblebury. The move allows the company to grow now and in the future.

The company currently employs 106 people and has created 20 new jobs in the last six months. Managing director Andy Evans said: "In early 2015, we realised we needed to move and I am extremely grateful to be able to stay in the Cannock area as almost all of our 105 work force live within four miles of Cannock."

Councillor Gordon Alcott, leader for economic development, said: "This move not only protects the existing workforce, but it also means that the company has room to grow and expand in their new premises."

Latest mobility models on market

COMMERCIAL FEATURE

AMBUCARE Mobility is currently demonstrating the latest generation of one-piece folding Mobility Scooters to come on to the UK market.

Lightness, comfort and stability are the most important features to look for in a portable mobility scooter and at Ambucare Mobility you will find two brand new and exclusive models.

The SupaScoota is the lightest portable scooter on the market and with its simple and "easy to fold design" it is highly transportable, has plenty of leg room, a special suspension seat and an enviable turning circle. The latest model features twin front wheels and a "state of the art" stability system, with the main frame weighing only 14kg.

The Di Blasi is for those who have limited mobility but really like to enjoy the great outdoors and want to venture a little further into the countryside. It has the advantage of a really stable design, large wheels and a revolutionary automatic folding mechanism, making it compact and ideal for transportation.

We stock a huge range of new mobility scooters and powered wheelchairs and in addition always have a large stock of second hand models. Ample easy free parking is always available as is a large test drive area outside.

As well as a part exchange service we also offer a comprehensive repair and servicing facility. For further information call 01785 225900 or visit our showroom: Ambucare Mobility, Unit 2, Romford Road, Astonfields Industrial Estate, Stafford. ST16 3DZ

Janet to demonstrate healing therapy

AN international psychic and medium will demonstrate her latest healing techniques during an exhibition at The Orbital Plaza in Cannock on April 14.

Janet O'Carroll will reveal all about her 'progressive alpha therapy'. The author, spiritual development teacher, reiki master and crystal therapist will also discuss her lifelong passion for helping and healing.

She said her new therapy, known as PAT, had taken the very best elements of reiki, crystal therapy, neuro linguistic programming and other elements to produce a powerful programme.

She said: "The brand new therapy takes each client on a journey to a place where their energies are balanced, cleansed and restored to provide the very best holistic healing formula.

"Each session infuses the mind, body and spirit to further increase upliftment and reinforce a more positive outlook on life."

Ms O'Carroll said she had compiled a series of case studies which demonstrated the long-lasting effects and benefits of her new therapy.

She said: "With more than three years of in-depth trials, the therapy has achieved outstanding results that have stunned medical experts, including doctors and surgeons."

Fewer mentally ill are ending up in police cells

Fans foot bill for Pete's sake

Pitmen Pete shoes off his new made-to-measure footwear

HEDNESFORD Town supporters arranged to foot the bill for a new pair of boots for the club's mascot.

Pitmen Pete had to finally hang up his boots when they reached the end of their playing life - worn out from years of pacing the touchline at Keys Park.

Having been worn by the mascot since 2002, the boots finally fell apart. Now Hednesford Supporters' Association have chipped in for new made-to-measure footwear thanks to the proceeds of a race night.

HTFCSA chairman Scott Smith, said: "We were delighted to be able to help Pete out in finding a new pair of boots through our fundraising - something that is no mean feat - or should that be feet!"

"Hopefully this means Pete can continue to welcome all the supporters who visit Keys Park. Who knows this may well help him gain those extra few yards in the mascot race that he is looking to take part in again this year at Uttoxeter Racecourse."

To join the Supporters Association, visit www.htfcsa.co.uk

THE number of people with mental health issues ending up in Staffordshire police cells despite not committing a crime has dropped by 80 per cent.

Police and Crime Commissioner Matthew Ellis said he was pleased with the figures after ordering Staffordshire Police to undertake a detailed report into the numbers.

New figures show a cross-agency approach through Staffordshire and Stoke-on-Trent which has seen people detained in police custody under the Mental Health Act fall from 168 in 2012 to 33 in 2015.

Mr Ellis said that after being 'shocked' by the original numbers when he first came into office three years ago, he began putting pressure on mental health service providers to ensure alternatives to custody were in place.

Safety

He said progress in Staffordshire, which had seen NHS and police staff work more closely together, had led to national reform including new government funding for health-based alternatives to police cells for people in mental health crisis.

"I was shocked by the number of mentally vulnerable people Staffordshire Police had no option but to put in police cells because there weren't suitable places of safety when I started work as the PCC," he said.

"It became clear to me this was fundamentally the wrong place for an individual who is in mental health crisis to be kept if they haven't committed a crime."

"Over the last three years, and working closely with Staffordshire police, I've invested additional resources in NHS mental health services. Alongside better training for police officers it's meant there's been a large reduction in the number of people who are simply ill finding themselves in a cell. The NHS has also stepped up to the mark by investing extra staff in this area in Staffordshire."

Motorcyclist died after hitting car on ride abroad

A KEEN motorcyclist who was on a tour of Europe with his friends died after coming off his bike and hitting a car in Slovenia, an inquest heard.

Colin Askey, of Oaken Grange, Cheslyn Hay, had been leading a convoy of 28 other bikes in the Srebrenica area of the country when he lost control of his Ducati bike on September 30 last year.

The 52-year-old's friend Roy Fradley, who was riding behind him, also came off his bike and hit the same car. Despite his injuries, he survived.

Father-of-two Mr Askey's widow Jacky said she was surprised he died on the road, considering how seriously he took riding safely.

After his inquest at Cannock Coroner's Court, she said: "He was a really experienced rider. He did a lot of trips on his own and with other people. He did the Dakar Rally twice."

"It was his life, but he was a safe rider, he would never have taken risks," she added.

"He always used to say if he saw anyone overtaking dangerously that they were giving good motorcyclists a bad name."

"It's just unbelievable that it was him who has ended up being killed when he was such a safe rider."

Mrs Askey added: "He lived life to the full and was a huge character."

"He is a massive loss, I'm still receiving messages from people now offering their sympathies."

Convoy

Coroners officer Andrew Heathcote told the hearing that Mr Askey had been leading the 28-strong convoy from Croatia, where they had spent the previous night, through Slovenia and on the way to Italy, their next destination.

He said: "Police investigators in Slovenia have said that he approached a bend to the right."

He said he and another rider, a Mr Clifford were leaning to the right and both skidded in the road.

"Colin's bike then collided with a car on the opposite side of the road," Mr Heathcote said.

He added Mr Askey was thrown into a ditch on the side of the road, while Mr Fradley landed at the wheels of the car after skidding across the road.

He said: "Investigators said the road was dry and visibility was good. He suffered multiple injuries and was pronounced dead at the scene."

The trip's organiser, Nicholas Duncan from Wild Side Events, informed Mrs Askey

Colin Askey was an experienced rider of her husband's death over the phone shortly after the crash. Andrew Haigh, senior coroner for South Staffordshire, said: "When a death occurs abroad, we are reliant on the evidence that local investigators can provide."

"The police in Slovenia have supplied a very detailed report. I've heard that Colin was an experienced motorcyclist."

"It is unclear whether Colin was travelling at an inappropriate speed, if there was contact between the two bikes or if indeed Colin had a natural, medical issue."

"The cause of his death was multiple injuries as a result of a road traffic accident."

Mr Askey, who ran Askey Precision Engineering in Willenhall, is survived by Jacky and their daughters Sophie, 24, and Chloe, 19.

Easter egg packaging can be recycled in store

CUSTOMERS can recycle their Easter egg packaging at Sainsbury's in Cannock. The specially designed recycling facility allows customers to recycle all elements of packaging – including plastic, card and paper – until April 12.

The recycling facilities will be available at 400 Sainsbury's across UK, including at Orbital Way.

The retailer also runs a Christmas card recycling scheme, which collected 89.1 tonnes of cards last year and amounted to a donation of £15,695 to the Forest Stewardship Council, which helps support the work they do protecting the world's forests.

Police issue alert over spate of shed raids

POLICE have issued a warning to keep properties locked up and secure following a spate of shed break-ins across Cannock Chase.

The alert was issued after five properties were targeted within three days. At 10.30pm on Sunday, March 20, a report was received about a break-in at a shed at a home in Arthur Street, Chadsmoor.

The intruder used a screwdriver to break the lock but despite a search of the shed, nothing was stolen.

The following day, a garage in the same road was subject to an attempted break-in when thieves tried to remove wooden flashing to get in through the roof.

They failed to gain access on this occasion. But garden tools were stolen from Marquis Court Nursing Home, Littleworth Road, Hednesford, before midday the same day. Two lawn mowers, a trimmer and other tools were taken.

Fence

Just before 9pm police received a call from a startled resident in Ward Street, Hednesford, who disturbed a burglar.

The caller had witnessed an intruder climb over the garden fence and force open a shed door. Despite getting inside they left empty-handed.

In the early hours of Tuesday morning a shed in View Street, Hednesford, was broken into.

A lock was broken off the door and thieves stole three mountain bikes, a petrol lawn mower, and electrical tools made by both Bosch and Stihl.

Funds available for community safety projects

CANNOCK Chase MP Amanda Milling is urging community safety groups to apply for grants from the Police & Crime Commissioner's 'Proceeds of Crime Fund'.

The fund, launched by Police & Crime Commissioner Matthew Ellis, sees money seized from criminals ploughed back into local communities. Groups can apply for grants of between £3,000 and £15,000 for projects that will help reduce crime and anti-social behaviour across the county.

Ms Milling said: "It is absolutely right that the proceeds of crime are returned to the local communities that have been the victims of crime. This is why I would encourage local community safety groups from across Cannock Chase to apply for the grants being made available.

"I want to make sure that here in Cannock Chase we get our share of the money being made available to help reduce crime and tackle anti-social behaviour."

Bids have to demonstrate a clear connection with reducing crime. Partner agencies involved in community safety locally can apply individually or in collaboration.

The latest application window is open now until April 14.

By Carl Jackson

Chief Inspector Geoff Knight, commander of Cannock Chase local policing team, has issued a warning to the town's residents to be vigilant.

He said: "Local neighbourhood officers are conducting house to house inquiries in the area and we urge residents to take a moment to ensure their home or property is kept secure using the simple crime prevention steps we regularly promote."

The police have issued a crime prevention checklist on the back of the latest spate which advises people to ensure sheds and garages are well-maintained and secured with strong locks, fit alarm systems and security lighting.

Residents are also advised mark property with post codes and house numbers, thread metal chains through the handles of tools, improve boundary fencing and hedging, and install gates with padlocks.

They can also register any belongings at www.immobilise.com for free.

Anyone with information on the latest spate of crimes is asked to contact police on 101.

Timely alerts on business crimes as app launched

Police & Crime Commissioner for Staffordshire Matthew Ellis with PCSO Abbie Lancaster

BUSINESSES in Staffordshire can receive free timely business crime alerts thanks to a new app or website.

Smart Alert has been developed by the Office of the Police & Crime Commissioner.

Companies can choose to receive business crime messages specific to their area of business, such as retail, motor trade or education, and can be directly received via phones, tablets or laptops or through an app.

Information can also be personalised to find out more about rural, horse, canal, school and cycle crime. Deputy Police & Crime Commissioner Sue Arnold is urging organisations to use Smart Alert to keep up-to-date on local business crime and to highlight support for businesses who have been victims.

She said: "Programmes like these turn the tables on criminals by joining up and sharing information about crime, working closely with the police."

The free Staffordshire Smart Alert App can be downloaded from the Apple and Android App stores or visit www.staffordshiresmartalert.uk

Smiler victims' charity handout

Joe Pugh, Dr Ben Clark, from the Air Ambulance, Jo Bailey, Leah Washington and Peter Dartford

TWO young people seriously injured in a crash on Alton Towers' rollercoaster Smiler have raised more than £14,000 for charity.

Leah Washington and Joe Pugh raised money for Staffordshire Safer Communities CIC and Midlands Air Ambulance as a thank you for the treatment they received after becoming trapped on the ride.

They presented a cheque for £6,000 to Chief Fire

Officer Peter Dartford on behalf of the CIC. Jo Bailey, from Midlands Air Ambulance Charity received £8,701.10. Leah and Joe were among the most serious casualties in the June 2015 incident.

Mr Dartford said: "I would like to thank Leah and Joe for their incredible generosity."

Ms Bailey said: "Their donation will help fund future life-saving air ambulance missions."

Bin collection changes

WASTE collections in Cannock Chase will be taken over by Biffa Municipal Ltd from this weekend.

Cannock Chase Council awarded Biffa Municipal Ltd the contract for waste collection in November last year, leading to significant financial savings. The contract officially starts on April 2.

Residents are informed that some collection days may change as the new service beds in.

New refuse vehicles include safety features to make waste collections safer for the public and operatives. This includes 360 degree CCTV cameras, forward and rear mounted automatic braking radars and cycle safety devices. Vehicle cabs will be fitted with the latest in refuse collection technology.

Councillor Alan Dudson, environment portfolio holder said: "Residents are advised that normal times of bin collections may be different than what they are used to, so don't assume that your bin hasn't been collected."

He added: "Disposing of waste in the wrong bin could result in the load being rejected and sent to landfill, which could cost up to £1,500."

For anyone unsure of what goes into which bin, a new search facility is now available at www.cannock-chase.gov.uk/whichbin, to assist with ensuring the right item is disposed of correctly.

Residents are still plagued by nuisance phone calls

STAFFORDSHIRE residents are being hounded by unscrupulous call centres, according to a new study.

The research, commissioned by CPR Call Blocker revealed the average person in the county receives 12 nuisance calls every month.

It adds eight per cent of people have reported receiving between 26 and 30 nuisance calls on a monthly basis.

Kris Hicks, from CPR Call Blocker, revealed the most prolific types of nuisance calls concerned PPI claims and car accident compensation followed by automated marketing calls.

More than half of those surveyed have had a nuisance caller consistently ring them over a period of time, even though they have told them to stop calling, while 22 per cent of people have either been scammed over the phone or know someone who has been.

One in five have even handed over money to a charity after feeling guilty and pressured into doing so, he added.

"Our survey shows that as a nation, we are still being hounded by unscrupulous calls centres, despite politely asking to be taken off databases and being careful about giving out our details in the first place," said Kris.

"Our research shows that nuisance calls rank highly on the list of concerns for elderly relatives living on their own."

He recommended adding details to the Telephone Preference Service and giving out a call blocking number such as 01111111111, when asked to provide your phone number on a form.

"You can also complain to Ofcom and report nuisance numbers to the Information Commissioners Office," he said. "An immediate solution is to install a call blocker to your landline which allows you to cut off unwanted calls as they come in and permanently stop them from calling you again."

Town centre regeneration leader Councillor Diane Todd is asking for suggestions to improve the district COUNCIL chiefs have earmarked £100,000 for environmental improvements across Cannock Chase district over the next year.

Cannock Chase Council plans to improve its three town centres as well as the wider area and is asking residents for ideas on where they would like to see the money being spent.

Suggestions so far include car park resurfacing and signs, keeping benches and street furniture freshly painted, improving street name plates and increasing planting.

Councillor Diane Todd, leader for town centre regeneration said: "Our town centres and other shopping areas are really important to us and we realise we need to invest in them. We want to make them as attractive as possible for our residents and visitors, to encourage people to spend time in them and increase the potential for small businesses where possible.

"We are asking residents for their input into what changes they would like to see made, to make our district a better place to live, work and visit."

Suggestions can be made via email at customerservices@cannockchasedc.gov.uk

700 sign up in protest at estate sports ban

MORE than 700 people have signed a petition against plans to stop sports clubs using the Shugborough Estate.

The National Trust is taking over the running of the estate from the county council and has announced it wants to stop the use of the site by football and cricket teams, which have used the pitches for decades.

The trust wants to use the space as a 'public amenity'. The trust has confirmed the lucrative Ironman 70.3 events will still be held at Shugborough for the next two years but doubts have been raised over whether future charity events will be held there.

Colwich parish councillors and Great Haywood residents have written to Stafford MP Jeremy Lefroy and have urged the trust to work with the community to come up with a compromise.

Parish councillor Victoria Jenkinson has signed the petition, which is being circulated around the parish and sports teams.

She said: "The pitches have been part of a recreation site for decades. The football teams in particular are struggling to find an alternative venue."

"John Libourne of the Sunday League Football Association has said they cannot afford to lose any more teams."

Resident Ben Walters said the pitches were well-used and that significant investment had been made on them.

He added there had been an outcry against the trust's plans and said the decision needed further thought.

Andy Beer, the National Trust's director for the Midlands, said: "We have not seen or received a petition in regards to the sports fields at this time so we cannot comment further."

The 1975 reinvent 1980s-style pop

ALBUMS

by Leon Burakowski

'EVERYTHING has been done,' says frontman of The 1975 Matty Healy, so for their second album the Wilmslow boys seem to have gone back to reinvent the 1980s.

Acts like Duran Duran, INXS, The Police, Hall & Oates cast a shadow over the pretentiously entitled I Like It When You Sleep, For You Are So Beautiful Yet So Unaware Of It.

But there is no denying the popular appeal of songs like The Sound and This Must Be The Dream, whilst their out-Bieber Justin himself on Loving Someone.

The ambient sub-Sigur Ros interludes are dispensable, and the ballad Nana is mawkish.

Guests

Get your rocks off with Primal Scream – the Screemadelica outfit are back with more gospel-infused pseudo-Stones rock on 11th studio album Chaosmosis.

Bobby Gillespie and co hit the ground running with the shuffle beat and jazzy piano on the bongo-beating opener Trippin' On Your Love.

Guests on the album include Haim, Sky Ferreira and Rachel Zeffira from Cat's Eyes.

But it soon becomes apparent the Chaosmosis is missing a monster track, a Rocks.

However, the groovy Golden Rope comes close.

Iggy Pop seems to be at his best when he has collaborators to nudge him in the right direction, whether it be The Stooges in the 60s or David Bowie in the 70s. So it is with new album Post

The 1975 have topped the album charts on both sides of the Atlantic

Pop Depression, conceived in the desert with Josh Homme from Queens Of The Stone Age.

This is this godfather of punk at his most melancholy and melodic, his rock god voice rumbling added gravitas to the instantly appealing tracks Break Into Your Heart and Gardenia. Just when you think he has mellowed, he brings some wry humour to Chocolate Drops and ends Paraguay with a rant.

Arranging Time, the sixth album from LA singer-songwriter Peter Dinklage, is a classy set of songs from an accomplished artist who has flown under the radar for too long.

His wistful Americana with subtle touches of synth deserve a big audience, especially for such lovely tracks as Halifax and Tomorrow.

Other highlights include the dream pop of She Was Weird and the rocking In Your Head.

The Coral make a triumphant return after a five-year hiatus with their eighth studio album, Distance Inbetween, an exercise in classic, timeless psychedelic pop-rock.

In the melodic Merseyside tradition of Echo and The Bunnymen and The Teardrop Explodes, the album was recorded at Liverpool's Parr Street Studio and the band fronted by singer/guitarist James Skelly have been joined by guitarist Paul Molloy, formerly of The Zutons.

Highlights include the harmonious pop of Miss Fortune and the harder edged Million Eyes and Fear Machine. It's certainly an impressive comeback.

Electronic duo Underworld, featuring Rick Smith and Worcester's Karl Hyde, are back with their seventh album Barbara Barbara, We Face A Shining Future, their first new music since that composed for the London Olympics Opening Ceremony.

From the percussive thud and spoken lyrics of opener Exhale, we are in familiar territory for anyone whose formative years were spent listening to Born Slippy on a loop.

It continues with the menacing techno of If Rah, the blissful sweep of Low Burn, mysterious orientalism of Santiago Cuatro, the meditative Motorhome, out-and-out dancer Ova Nova and gorgeous epic finale Nylon Strung.

Pupils get digging for future learning

Owen Weaver, left, Tavi Maritua, leader Kate Busfield, school co-ordinator Melanie Smith, Grace Pearce and Leah Jackson

YOUNGSTERS in Rugeley were selected to take part in a free tree planting session. The project has been funded by Engie, which owns and operates Rugeley Power Station. Led by Kate Busfield, the team helped young pupils at Chase View Primary to plant a small area of land that will form part of its growing Forest School. The Trees for School Programme was to make a long-lasting and beneficial contribution to the education and development of young people by planting trees which will become a focus for outdoor learning in future years. Meanwhile, pupils visited RAF Cosford as part of a topic looking at different types of transport.

Free chip offer for district's dog owners

CANNOCK Chase Council, working in conjunction with the Dogs Trust and Swan Pit Kennels, Gnosall, is offering residents who own a dog the chance to get their pet microchipped for free.

The event will take place at Victory Hall, in Slitting Mill Lane, Slitting Mill, on Saturday from 10am to 3pm, before the new law comes into force on April 6.

The Dogs Trust is providing the microchips, and staff from Swan Pit Kennels will be implanting them free of charge. Council officers will be on hand to give out information and offer advice to owners regarding dog fouling, keeping dogs on leads, noise nuisance and other aspects of dog control.

Owners who have a dog that has already been microchipped but have not updated their contact details must do so before April 6 to keep within the law.

Council officers will be able to scan each dog to check if it has already been microchipped and will be able to direct owners to the registration company.

By David Banner

To access the scheme, dog owners will be required to provide evidence that they are residents of the Cannock Chase district, such as a council tax or utility bill, bank statement or other document confirming their name and their address.

Councillor Alan Dudson, portfolio leader for environment, said: "This is the last chance for dog owners who have not yet had their dog microchipped, to do so free of charge."

Pisa, the Cinque Terre and Portofino

This wonderful tour explores two of Italy's most desirable regions, Tuscany, famed for its art, architecture and stunning countryside, and the Italian Riviera which is simply beautiful.

The first part of this holiday is spent in Pisa. Enjoy a guided tour of this historic city which takes in the most famous sights, such as the great Leaning Tower, perhaps one of the world's most instantly recognisable icons (entrance payable locally).

The cathedral is another well known sight, with a beautifully decorated interior with detailed sculptures, fine art, graceful arches and colourful marble.

Included is a guided tour of Lucca, famed for its wonderfully reserved Renaissance city walls. This city is a truly lovely place to explore, so there will also be plenty of free time to wander its charming cobbled streets, shady promenades or perhaps enjoy an Italian coffee in one of the many cafes.

Tuscany is famous for producing excellent wines, so also included is a visit to a working vineyard for wine tasting, as well as a tour of the rolling Tuscan countryside.

The second half of this break takes in the delights of the Italian Riviera, staying in elegant Santa Margherita.

Cruise by private charter (weather permitting) to the extraordinary Cinque Terre ("The Five Lands"), five villages cut off from the landward side by a rugged terrain and steep coastline. Enjoy the surroundings and lifestyle that has changed very little over time.

There is also time to discover the beauty of Portofino, Italy's most exclusive town with its extraordinarily picturesque waterfront. Perhaps head to a local bar for more authentic Portofino life or take a walk to the headland for a spectacular view.

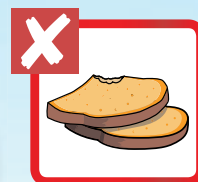

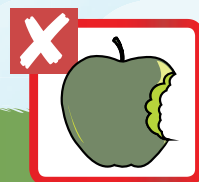

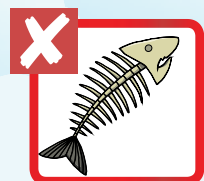

Price includes:

- ✓ Return flights
- ✓ Seven nights half-board accommodation
- ✓ Guided tours of Pisa and Lucca
- ✓ Visit by boat to Portofino
- ✓ Private boat visit to the Cinque Terre villages
- ✓ Visit to a working Tuscan vineyard and tasting
- ✓ Tour of the Tuscan countryside
- ✓ Services of a tour manager
- ✓ Single rooms subject to availability (supplement applies)

Organised by Riviera Travel (ABTA V4744, ATOL 3430)

Please read brochures/web pages for full description plus terms and conditions. Prices are per person (unless otherwise stated) and varies according to departure date. Dates are subject to availability. Please go to website for the latest availability and prices. Please note Star Reader Travel are unable to take bookings.

Lesley's new role as horrid Hannigan

Lesley Joseph as Miss Hannigan in the hit musical Annie, which is coming to Wolverhampton Grand Photo: Paul Coltas

BIRDS of a Feather star Lesley Joseph will turn from Essex mannequin into gin-soaked American orphanage boss when ever-popular musical Annie arrives in Wolverhampton next week.

The actress, who found fame as snob neighbour Dorien in the hit sitcom co-starring Pauline Quirke and Linda Robson, is now taking on the role of Miss Hannigan, the spiteful haridan who attempts to cheat poor little orphan Annie after she becomes the favourite orphan of billionaire Daddy Warbucks.

Set in 1930s New York, the show features such popular songs as Tomorrow, It's the Hard-Knock Life and Easy Street.

Lesley Joseph is relishing her role when the show is staged at the Grand Theatre from Monday to Saturday, April 9.

"This is a brand new production of Annie, and it's very exciting," she says. "I get to be very horrible but I try to make my Miss Hannigan a little bit vulnerable because she's got a rotten life, she's stuck in an orphanage with no money looking after kids in the middle of The Depression."

"It is, however, a fun family musical and that's what I love - you can bring your granny or your grandchildren, and the little girls all want to be Annie."

Perfect for inspiration

SHE made her name with the group Fairground Attraction and their BRIT award winning 1988 number one hit Perfect, the first in a hat-trick of BRITs for the Scottish singer Eddi Reader has spent the biggest part of her life working as a solo artist.

She is one of Scotland's best loved singers and sang in 2004 at the opening of the Scottish Parliament, and was awarded an MBE for outstanding contributions to the arts in the New Year's honours list of 2006.

Reader is back on the road with a solo tour that will reach Birmingham's Glee Club on Sunday, April 3, when she is looking forward to showcasing her favourites from a lifetime's worth of songs.

"I don't have secrets," she says. "I love songs and stories. I am inspired by life around me."

"I love artists like Louis Armstrong. I identify with him. There are so many brilliant human beings past and present. Kids inspire me most of all, they remind me of living in the moment."

"When I left home, I was full of adventure and wanderlust. I met like-minded people and we all conjoined on a river bank in the South of France. We ate together with the money we all made by presenting our talents in the streets of Avignon, Nimes and Uzès. It taught me about sharing, listening and selling a song without a microphone."

"I never had a plan. I just aligned myself to songs I liked and they put me in all kinds of situations."

The Final Straw for Otway and Barrett

HERE are some of the week's gig highlights:

Tonight (Thu) veterans John Otway and Wild Willy Barrett bring their Final Straw Tour to Bilston's Robin 2.

Tomorrow Montreal rock band The Besnard Lakes bring their Pink Floyd-like soundscapes to the Hare and Hounds in Kings Heath.

New Yorkers the Big Ups play Birmingham city centre's Sunflower Lounge on Saturday.

Jim Jones brings his latest band, The Righteous Mind, for raw rock at the Hare and Hounds on Tuesday, then psychedelic rockers The Vryll Society are at the same above-the-pub venue on Wednesday.

Comedy nights spring into action

THE 'Mouth of the South' - AKA comedian Rob Beckett - is coming to Shropshire and Staffordshire on his spring tour.

The toothy blond comic, known for his appearances on Mock The Week and 8 Out Of 10 Cats, is at The Place at Oakengates, Telford, on Saturday before returning to the region at Stafford Gatehouse on April 16, Burton's Brewhouse Arts Centre on May 19 and at Lichfield Festival on July 4.

Humour has a regional flavour at Wolverhampton Grand tomorrow night (Fri) with a Black Country Night Out featuring Jonny Cole, The Fizzogs, Dandy and The Ronaldos.

Familiar faces in murder mystery

FOLLOWING his decade-long success with The Agatha Christie Theatre Company, theatre impresario Bill Kenwright has created The Classic Thriller Theatre Company.

Its first production, Rehearsal For Murder, is staged at Birmingham's New Alexandra Theatre from Monday to Saturday, April 9. The cast of familiar faces from TV include Ben Nealon (from Soldier Soldier), Robert Daws (Poldark), Susan Penhaligon (Bouquet of Barbed Wire), Robert Duncan (Drop The Dead Donkey), Lucy Dixon (Waterloo Road), Amy Robbins (The Royal) and Steven Pinder (Brookside).

6.00 Regional Programme.

6.10 Can't Touch This. A pest controller a "dosey-do" dancer, and a former member of a boy-band are among the contestants in a singing trial they throw through a giant obstacle course, in the hopes of laying hands on the goodies within. Zoe Ball and Ashley Banjo preside as the competitors tear through the gauntlet, and the winner is crowned. The contest culminates in a giant leap of faith that could net them the grand prize. Narrated by Sue Perkins.

7.00 The Voice UK. The semi finals arrive, along with the nail-biting tension associated with another round of live performances. The remaining contestants must once again master their nerves and take to the stage to determine whether the tutelage they've received at the hands of Will.i.am, Ricky Wilson, Paloma Faith and Ricky George has paid off. As was the case last week, the identities of those would-be stars progressing through to the grand final will be decided by the viewers at home, who are encouraged to take part in a live vote to determine which act will be leaving the contest.

9.05 Casually. Connie decides to call off her romance with Jacob, but has second thoughts when he gets trapped in a partially collapsed building. Meanwhile, Ethan shares his views with wife.

Marcella faces a deadly blast from the past

In 2014, the Swedish-Danish crime thriller The Bridge began a run on BBC Four.

Fans of the series may be interested to know that its creator, Hans Rosenfeldt, is also the man behind this new drama, his first British project.

"Turin is a city in the north of Italy that I don't know much about, but it was there that Marcella was born," reveals Rosenfeldt. "I was there to talk about The Bridge, and my thoughts on the remakes that have been made. It's there that I met TV executive Nicola Larder.

"Later, at a very nice dinner, she said she had an idea about a police series set in London, where we meet the protagonist at her lowest ebb, having just been left by her husband, with her kids away at boarding school and a serial killer from the past reappearing. Would I be interested in developing it further? The answer to that, as you've probably guessed, was yes."

Of course, cops on the edge aren't exactly a rarity – in fact, millions of us have recently been gripped by the second series of Happy Valley, in which Sarah Lancashire played Catherine Cawood, a police sergeant still somehow picking herself up and carrying on with her life despite being repeatedly hit by its slings and arrows, including a psychopath determined to grind her down from inside his prison cell.

Here, the action takes place in London rather than West Yorkshire, and focuses on Marcella Backland, played by Anna Friel.

When we first meet her, Marcella is heartbroken by the break-up of her marriage and needs a new purpose. As a result, she returns to the police career she gave up 10 years previously, and throws herself into her work with the Met's Murder Squad to stop herself falling apart.

Her first case involves a serial killer whose raison d'être appears to be the same of a murderer she was trying to find in 2005. Has he started a new killing spree, or have the crimes been committed by a copycat?

"Anna Friel was the only actress I had in my head," says Larder. "I'd worked with her briefly and I knew she was this incredibly powerful method actress. And I'd missed her – she hasn't been in the UK for a while. She's the right age for this character and emotionally she just lets herself go into a part."

"Thankfully her first meeting with us went really well. I felt she had plugged herself into mine and Hans's bodies and she understood this character from the inside out."

Larder also claims that it still "feels fresh" to have a female lead character in a major drama series, despite many examples of that happening, including in the aforementioned Happy Valley, as well as the likes of Scott and Bailey and, of course, the mighty Prime Suspect.

She also neglects to mention the Nordic flavour brought to the BBC's River by Stellan Skarsgård, but we'll forgive her these omissions if Marcella lives up to its promise.

Anna Friel stars in Marcella, Monday, ITV, 9pm

MONDAY

Neighbours: Hotel Death Trap

Channel 5, 5.30pm

It's all kicking off in Erinsborough this week! Over the years viewers have witnessed some extraordinary (and, occasionally, unbelievable moments) during the long-running soap, but those in the know claim that this may top the lot – we're certainly not used to the usually family friendly programme requiring a post-watershed slot. It all begins with everything seemingly ticking over as normal at the Lassiter's leisure complex. Everyone is going about their business, unaware that somebody is tampering with its boiler. As a variety of meetings and assignments get under way – including a secret rendezvous, surprise encounters and the arrival of two mystery men – the boiler explodes, leaving some well-known faces buried and trapped beneath the resulting debris. But who will survive the carnage?

TUESDAY

Murdered By My Father

BBC1, 10.45pm

In 2014, BBC Three brought us the award-winning one-off drama Murdered By My Boyfriend, which explored the issues of domestic abuse. Now the channel is bringing us this powerful drama, which is airing on TV after receiving its debut online, and tackles the controversial subject of 'honour violence' in Britain. Kiran Sonia Sawar stars as teenager Salma, whose widowed father Shahzad (Adeel Akhtar) is determined to find her a suitable husband, and thinks he has picked one in the shape of Haroon (Salman Akhtar). However, Salma has fallen for Imi (Mawaan Rizwan), who urges her to leave her family and marriage arrangements behind in favour of a new life. When Haroon confronts Shahzad about his daughter's actions, the scene is set for more than one tragedy...

WEDNESDAY

The People Next Door

Channel 4, 9pm

The award-winning team behind Cyberbully and Blackout are back with another thought-provoking one-off drama that raises some difficult questions. It begins with a young middle-class couple being interviewed by the police following an altercation with their neighbours. A series of flashbacks reveal that parents-to-be Gemma (Joanna Horton) and Richard (Happy Valley's Karl Davies) moved into their home two months ago and, after hearing sounds of rows and violence through the wall, they begin to suspect that one of the neighbours' children is at risk of abuse. When the authorities fail to intervene, Gemma and Richard use increasingly elaborate surveillance methods to find out what is really happening next door. Are their intrusive actions justified if it means protecting a child, or are the snooping couple the real neighbours from hell?

THURSDAY

Millionaires' Mansions

Channel 4, 8pm

New series. London's housing market is booming, thanks to foreign investors buying property worth more than £100 billion – and as a result the luxury interior design industry is flourishing. This documentary follows three prestigious designers working for some of the capital's wealthiest clients. They include Joanna Wood, who has been designing houses for royal families and Hollywood film stars for 30 years, and Brian Wade, who has spent the past four-and-a-half years designing a seven-storey Knightsbridge townhouse, with furniture including a stingray-skin coffee table and a chandelier made from Hyde Park leaves dipped in gold.

FRIDAY

Football: Women's Euro 2017 Qualifiers

BBC2, 7.30pm

There will be no room for complacency for World Cup semi-finalists England tonight as they face Belgium in their latest Euro 2017 Qualifier at Rotherham United's New York Stadium. After the 8-0 drubbing of Estonia in Tallinn, Mark Sampson's Lionesses only just squeezed through their last qualifier 1-0 at home to Bosnia & Herzegovina, thanks to a Jill Scott winner. And they are also looking to bounce back after failing to win any of their three games against Germany, USA and France in last month's inaugural SheBelieves Cup in America. Presenter Jacqui Oatley is joined in the studio by England internationals Kelly Smith and Rachel Brown-Finnis, while commentary is provided by Jonathan Pearce and Sue Smith.

Murdered By My Father, Tuesday, BBC1, 10.45pm

Can't go wrong – the steak and six (count them) chips

Fine dining in the Orangery Restaurant

Picture perfect – the restaurant's picturesque setting

Tasty – goat's cheese and ricotta ravioli

It's fine dining at Moat House but you may have to push the boat out

SET in a 14th century manor house in a quaint rural Staffordshire village, family-run restaurant The Moat House, in Acton Trussell, is a beautiful venue.

It's set in splendid surroundings – complete with a moat – and is the perfect destination for an indulgent treat. Its award-winning Orangery Restaurant is renowned for superior quality, excellent service and stunning presentation; but also its pricey menu but as the saying goes, you get what you pay for.

The tasting menu, for example, costs £60 each – or £90 each with paired wines carefully selected to complement every dish. Its gourmet menu, costs £45 per head, for a four-course meal, complete with amuse-bouche, fresh bread, vegetable panache, filter coffee and petit fours.

By Kirsten Rawlins

The eatery does, however, now have a 'fixed price menu', with three courses priced at £24 between 6.30-7.30pm, Sunday to Friday, making this high-end venue far more affordable for a regular trip.

The food, needless to say, remains every bit as high-quality and delicious as we'd hoped – but more on that later.

My partner and I visited The Moat House on a rainy Thursday evening after a long day at work and, though the pair of us were tired we were immediately put at ease by the attentive staff in the restaurant, complete with sparkling chandeliers and crisp, white tablecloths.

It is often the case that fixed price menus are limited to few options, but The Moat House's list was packed with delicious foods – from pig cheek and cured mackerel for starters, through to roast guinea fowl, sirloin steak and cod in browned butter for mains. After studying the options, my other half opted for the oriental pig cheek for a starter, and I for the goat's cheese and ricotta ravioli.

My ravioli was cheesy, tender and delicious. The oriental pig cheek, meanwhile, was tender and meaty, marinated in a tasty coating.

Treated

Before the starters arrived, we were treated to a basket of seeded and non-seeded bread, followed by a shot glass of celery and garlic soup.

Due to my desire to try outlandish foods – and my partner's tendency to stick to what he knows – we rarely end up eating the same meals when dining out, but this time around there was no doubt about what we wanted: the Staffordshire sirloin steak. And, though the meat was fairly tender, had no gristle and was cooked as we'd requested, it was – for all intents and purposes – a fairly average steak and chips. The dish came with a side of buttery vegetables and six stacked chips.

As it happened, we were full, but the sweets looked too tempting, so we settled for the Valrhona dulce chocolate panna cotta and the banana and caramel arctic roll. And, my goodness, they were the best desserts I think I've ever had the delight of trying.

Considering we visited the restaurant on a Thursday – and by 9pm there was barely a table left – I would certainly recommend booking in advance, especially at weekends.

An incredible meal, with superb presentation, in a wonderful setting with reasonably attentive service.

Toyota Mirai is named World Green Car 2016

Mirai, Toyota's hydrogen fuel cell saloon, has been declared the 2016 World Green Car, winning through in a shortlist of three that also included the new Toyota Prius.

The title, announced at the New York International Auto Show, was decided by a jury of 73 automotive journalists from 23 countries worldwide.

Karl Schlicht, Toyota Motor Europe's executive vice president for sales and marketing, said: "As recognised leaders in hybrid technology, we are truly honoured to have received such an award."

"This is a clear recognition of Toyota's long-term commitment to the fuel cell, a convincing, safe and relevant mobility solution which is leading the way to development of the ultimate eco-car."

Mirai, which emits nothing other than water vapour when driven, is a pioneering vehicle that will contribute to the development of future hydrogen energy-based society.

In spite of its advanced powertrain technology, it is a practical and fun-to-drive car, with a quiet, comfortable ride and striking contemporary design.

The UK is among the first European markets to offer the Toyota Mirai, its introduction here taking advantage of the development of national infrastructure for the supply and sale of hydrogen fuel.

Early customers for the vehicle include Transport for London, the private car hire service greentomatocars and hydrogen energy business ITM Power.

New lease of life for updated SEAT Ibiza

By John Griffiths

It's a sign of the times that SEAT has tagged one of its smallest (in terms of capacity) engines with its sporty 'FR' model designation.

But this isn't any old three cylinder, 999cc petrol unit – it's one of a new generation of small but highly efficient engines where, on demand, turbo charging makes up for the lack of cubic centimetres but gives one litre economy when you're cruising or crawling.

At first sight it doesn't seem that much has changed – the sculpted side panels in particular make it instantly recognisable as a descendant of one of the most popular small cars on our roads. But look more closely and you see the bonnet and boot lines have been cleaned up, and you might notice the new range of colours too.

But it's under the skin where SEAT has spent its development money, with more efficient engines and a significant – and long awaited – upgrade to the interior which will help the Ibiza compete with Johnny-come-lately rivals.

The test model was a 1.0 litre Eco TSi with 110Ps on tap – pretty effective in a small car but also aided by a whole 200Nm of torque thanks to the turbo, so power is delivered more evenly and from lower revs.

It was coupled to the Audi VW Group's excellent DSG automatic gearbox, with seven electronically controlled ratios to ensure you're always in the most efficient ratio for acceleration or economy, depending on your right foot. You can, of course, also change gear manually using the gearstick sequentially or via the up/down paddles behind the steering wheel. For me that's useful to limit speed on a steep descent, or you take full control on a twisty stretch of road, but for the most part the auto system is both rapid and responsive enough for you to leave it doing its job.

That addition of DSG partly explains the £16,140 price tag for this test model, but worth it if you're an auto fan or fed up with pumping your clutch foot up and down in traffic. And it comes without the power and economy drawbacks of older auto transmissions.

But FR also denotes of the highest, and the sportiest, trim levels so it also comes with extra standard equipment including the distinctive twin exhausts, sports front seats, unique 16-inch alloys with low profile tyres, sports suspension, automatic headlights and wipers, cruise control and, of course, a sports style flat-bottomed steering wheel.

There are three other FR engine options, two 1.4 turbo diesels with 90 and 105PS respectively, and the flagship 1.4 TSi with 150PS on tap.

Lively

Compared to normally aspirated, and in many cases smaller one litre cars, the FR's turbo makes it feel lively from the moment you set off, and according to official figures 60mph comes up in an impressive 9.3 seconds.

Line up for an overtake and the DSG system rapidly responds by changing down one or two gears to get you quickly and safely past. Unless you're pressing on, and with the availability of that higher, seventh gear, the engine is barely audible and you're more likely to notice some background noise from the wide, low profile tyres.

According to official laboratory tests, the 1.0 FR is capable of averaging 64.2mpg – and a low, tax-saving 102g/km of CO2 – but in real world driving and traffic conditions the test car returned a still creditable 50mpg.

The sports suspension doesn't result in a harsh ride, but what it does very well is to sharpen up the Ibiza's handling. It's quick to turn in and holds its line even through bumpy corners which help to make it a fun and rewarding car to drive. The brakes are smooth and powerful too.

Interior and load space of just short of 300 litres haven't changed, but the Ibiza is quite capable of accommodating four in comfort, with the five doors of the test model making access to the rear easier than in three-door versions.

It's in the interior where the major changes have taken place. It feels much higher quality, with switchgear from Ibiza's big brother, the Leon, and a centre colour touchscreen controlling a range of functions. There's also a driver information display between the two principal instruments.

The test car was also kitted out with a number of extras including a first class upgraded sound system (£155), climate control (as opposed to standard aircon) at £320 and rear parking sensors at £220. For £725 the car was also showcasing one of the most sophisticated and comprehensive communications, entertainment and media set-ups available in any small car, all controlled via a central touch screen.

Features include a three-dimensional navigation system with voice control, Bluetooth, MP3 and CD player, SEAT's 'Full Link' system consisting of Mirrorlink, Apple CarPlay and Android Auto, capable of integrating with smart phone functions. As with its efficient engines and sharper styling, this technological wizardry shows the competent little Ibiza has undergone more than a facelift. It's given the car a new lease of life to broaden its appeal and tackle the competition head on.

Suzuki resurrect Baleno

The name Baleno is not a new one for Suzuki. The Japanese marque introduced its original Baleno back in 1995 as a bigger brother to the Swift supermini.

Underneath the three-door hatchback, four-door saloon or estate bodysell was a stretched Swift platform with certain engines shared. Although it was axed way back in 2002 and not exactly missed, Suzuki have still decided to resurrect the name.

In a way, it's quite fitting. Although the new car is undoubtedly more interesting to look at than its predecessor, it offers much of the same. The key selling points are a competitive price and plenty of space inside for both passengers and their luggage. Like the original, it does this by being noticeably larger than the Swift and therefore other vehicles within the supermini class. Unlike the Nineties version, there's plenty of new componentry that makes the new Baleno a serious competitor in the supermini segment.

There are a couple of engine options in the Baleno; Suzuki's existing 1.2-litre 'DUALJET' four cylinder engine with 90PS or a new 'BOOSTERJET' 1.0-litre three cylinder powerplant with 112PS. The 1.2-litre option comes with a mild hybrid system that uses a combined starter and generator to harvest electrical energy when the Baleno slows. Not only can this charge the battery and start the engine, it can also add additional power when pulling away from a standstill. This promises to bring a useful improvement in both economy and emissions figures.

As you may have guessed from the name, the 'BOOSTERJET' motor is yet another downsized turbocharged powerplant. While it may lack the hybrid system of the 1.2, clever management of the turbocharger means it shouldn't be too far behind, even though it will offer significantly more performance. While Suzuki do talk of 'superior driving performance', the Baleno is unlikely to be set up for B-road blasting.

Refinement

With the Swift such a fun little car, the focus will be very much on ride comfort and refinement to ensure the Baleno appeals to a very different audience.

Compared to the Swift, the Baleno is longer, wider yet lower. This gives it a much less upright look although you'd never call it sleek. There is an attractive feature line that rises from the headlight, over the front wing before dropping down and slowly climbing to meet the window line. Up front there's a bold grille with a large Suzuki 'S' logo while the rear is not quite as adventurous.

Expect trim levels to be similar to the Swift. That means S22 through to S24, although we doubt there's going to be a Sport version. Depending on the model you select, available equipment includes daytime LED running lights, climate control, alloy wheels and of course electric windows.

Those that must have the latest infotainment system will be interested in the 7" touchscreen system that is Apple CarPlay compatible via a USB lead. There's no mention of Android Auto but the system does offer MirrorLink so you can display your apps on the touchscreen. Further highlights include an adaptive cruise control system that can alter the car's speed to suit traffic and autonomous braking too. This is a three stage system that works by alerting the driver, increasing braking force if they are already in use and applying the brakes if the middle pedal hasn't been touched.

Official figures are yet to be released but Suzuki are claiming the 1.2-litre mild hybrid should have carbon emissions of around 93g/km. Fuel economy has not been mentioned but should be competitive given the amount of carbon the Baleno looks likely to emit. This of course means free tax while features such as autonomous braking should mean insurance is low too. As for the warranty, this is a typical 3 year, 60,000 mile affair.

Some might think it a little odd that Suzuki seems to be competing with themselves by releasing a second car in the B segment supermini class. The truth of the matter is that the Swift and Baleno are different enough to ensure they are unlikely to steal sales from each other.

While the Swift is a funky little city car, the Baleno is that little bit bigger and more mature.

SsangYong Korando Sports are full of value

By James Parker

SsangYong is earning a solid reputation for value and quality, and nowhere is this more evident than with its Korando Sports 1 tonne pick-up.

Korean engineered and built, the Korando Sports has a reputation for durability, and is the only pick-up to come with a five year limitless mileage warranty. The range now has three models, the S, SX and EX with prices from just £14,495 - £18,195 (ex VAT).

Based on the top of the range EX automatic, the new Korando Sports DMZ is a limited edition model featuring full camouflage paintwork, roof rails and 18" alloy wheels, and priced at £19,195 (ex VAT).

Paul Williams, CEO of SsangYong Motor UK, said: "With its keen price and comprehensive list of standard equipment, Korando Sports gives you a lot of vehicle for the money - from £14,495 (ex VAT), and the reassurance of a five year limitless mileage warranty for complete peace of mind.

"It can be loaded like a truck yet still drives like a car, and really is the best value pick-up you can buy!

"The DMZ is a bit of fun. We ordered a short run initially but they were instantly snapped-up by our dealers, so we think it could prove particularly popular with owner drivers."

Korando Sports is powered by SsangYong's e-XDi 2 litre diesel engine, and provides maximum power of 155PS and peak torque of 360Nm delivered between 1,500rpm and 2,800rpm providing ample performance both on and off road, and fuel economy of up to 37.7 mpg on the Combined Cycle*.

The vehicle has very good levels of NVH (noise, vibration and harshness) and comes with on-demand 4-wheel drive, a full 1 tonne payload and a towing capability of up to 2.7 tonnes.

A real workhorse, the pick-up features a large, flat rear deck giving a 2.04m² load area to take a Euro pallet, and fitted with load deck liner and anchor points. A range of optional rigid hard tops to provide weather protection and security to the load area is also available.

Also and unusually for the segment, the SsangYong Korando Sports also features a live rear axle supported by a sophisticated multi-link rear suspension system with progressive coil springs to give a comfortable, car like ride, instead of the more dated leaf springs employed on many other pick-ups.

Equipped

In addition to DMZ there are three models to choose from. The S is the lowest priced double cab pick-up on the market at just £14,495 (ex VAT).

The SX is a step up and extremely well equipped with 18" alloy wheels, tinted glass, air conditioning, leather covered steering wheel, remote central locking, an MP3 CD & RDS radio with a USB & auxiliary port and Bluetooth connectivity as well as speed sensitive power assisted steering. The Korando Sports SX costs £15,395 (ex VAT).

The EX also features 18" alloy wheels, and adds the luxury touch of leather upholstery with heated front seats, powered driver's seat, heated, electrically adjustable and power folding door mirrors and rear parking sensors. A Mercedes-Benz 5 speed automatic transmission with cruise control is also available as an option. The EX with manual transmission is £16,995 (ex VAT), and with automatic transmission, £18,195 (ex VAT).

As with all models in the SsangYong range, the new Korando Sports 1 tonne pick-up is covered by a 5 year limitless mileage warranty.

Designed to be totally transparent and give customers complete peace of mind, 'limitless' means just that: not a maximum mileage condition that some brands impose in their small print.

All the major mechanical components are covered including wheel bearings, suspension joints and bushes, steering joints, shock absorbers and even the audio system. Wearable components such as clutch discs and brake friction materials which could have their life reduced by poor driving are covered for one year or 12,000 miles, and the battery and paintwork for three years.

SsangYong cars are manufactured in South Korea by SsangYong Motor, which is 73 per cent owned by the Indian engineering conglomerate Mahindra & Mahindra, and imported into the UK by SsangYong Motor UK. Established in 1954 it is Korea's oldest vehicle manufacturer and only 4x4 and SUV specialist producer.

There are currently some 60 SsangYong dealers covering England, Northern Ireland, Scotland and Wales, with new locations being added to the network all the time.

DRIVETIME

Nissan is celebrating 20 years of the 'curry hook'

Nissan's advanced driver assistance systems are available on many of its models, including the award-winning Qashqai crossover.

Development of these hi-tech solutions is constantly evolving to improve the ownership experience, but Nissan engineers never forget that a simple approach can be just as effective. This month marks 20 years since the debut of one of its most iconic features - the much-loved 'curry hook'.

The dashboard hook first appeared on the Almera compact family hatchback in March 1996, as a way of keeping hand bags or shopping bags upright. It was quickly dubbed the 'curry hook' by media who recognised it was the perfect way to stop takeaway food from spilling into the car's foot well.

Today, it remains a feature of the brand's crossovers such as the Qashqai and X-Trail. All that's changed is the location of the hook; it has moved from the dashboard to the boot.

It's just one of many simple solutions which Nissan has incorporated into its cars to make life easier for the driver. Another is the 'Karakuri' boot board - also known as the Flexi-Board - which is available on the Qashqai, Juke and Note. It allows owners to divide the cargo space according to their needs, and can be arranged in various configurations to support and protect items in transit. When not in use, it cleverly stores out of the way in the boot floor.

Nissan's engineers have put just as much thought into the latest Navara pick-up. For example, it features a 12-volt power socket in the dashboard's upper storage tray - ideal for customers who have their own portable sat-nav device to stick to the windscreen. It means no potentially hazardous trail of wires across the fascia, keeping the driving environment tidy and unobstructed. Cleverly, for customers who choose a Navara with an integrated sat-nav, the socket isn't there.

Such smart thinking isn't a new element of the Nissan 'customer-first' philosophy. In September 1986, when the first Nissan Bluebird rolled off the new production line in Sunderland, UK, it had two analogue trip meters built into the instrument cluster behind the steering wheel.

Why? So business users could easily separate and log their professional and private mileage. A unique feature at the time, it is now standard on the digital read-outs of almost every volume car brand.

Many innovations such as these began life in the minds of the engineering experts at Nissan's European Technical Centre in Cranfield, UK.

NOTICE TO READERS
Please be aware that when purchasing a puppy there are some simple guidelines you can follow to ensure that you are not purchasing from a Puppy Farmer:
1. Try to ensure you visit the puppy whilst it is still with its Mother.
2. Do not arrange to collect a puppy from any other location than that of the breeder.
3. Ensure that you are given any KC documentation, if pedigree. Whilst Midlands News Association publications take great care to avoid publication of advertisements from Puppy Farmers we cannot accept any liability should readers purchase from this kind of establishment.

The Green Bus
Really Good Bus/Coach Driver
(full-time, part-time and casual): up to £22,000 per annum (£423 per week) plus overtime
There is strong competition to join our driving team and our standards are demanding. We're really looking only for the best PCV drivers in the West Midlands.
We're looking for drivers who will interact well with our customers and deliver excellent customer service. You will need a good working knowledge of the West Midlands and surrounding area for private hire work and be able to plan safe routes from place to place. Valid PCV and Driver CPC required. All annual leave is taken during school holidays.
We are looking only for the best PCV drivers. If this is you, we'd be delighted to hear.
Full details are available at www.thegreenbus.co.uk/jobs/. All posts require enhanced DBS checks. For more information call 0121 515 0069 or email careers@thegreenbus.co.uk.

SHOWROOM SALES ASSISTANT
We currently have a 24 hour per week vacancy (possibly leading to full time) for an experienced Sales Assistant to join our retail showroom on the outskirts of Cannock. You will need to have retail experience and be able to help maximise showroom sales, be of assistance to the showroom Manager and run the showroom in the Managers absence.
This role requires a high level of product training and legal legislation training where you will be required to shadow staff before progressing to the showroom.
As this is a seasonal trade we require you to be flexible with working hours, you will be required to work 3 in every 4 Saturdays.
Salary £7.50/hour + Sales bonus
If you think that you can fulfil this role then please send your CV to firesidefactory.norton@hotmail.co.uk
Closing date for applications is Friday 8th April, if you have not had a response within 1 week of the closing date, you should assume your application has been unsuccessful on this occasion.

WE ARE AN EXPANDING BUSINESS in the Burntwood area involved in the construction industry and are looking to recruit the following personnel for full time positions:
* TRAINING ESTIMATOR
* WINDOW FABRICATORS
* NEW BUILD WINDOW FITTERS
* FITTERS MATES
* SERVICE ENGINEER
CSCS card holders would be preferred.

STAFFORDSHIRE COUNTY COUNCIL ROAD TRAFFIC REGULATION ACT 1984 (AS AMENDED) ROAD TRAFFIC (TEMPORARY RESTRICTIONS) ACT 1991
KINGSWOOD AVENUE, CANNOCK DIVISION OF VEHICULAR TRAFFIC
NOTICE is hereby given that the Staffordshire County Council intend, not less than seven days from the date of this Notice, to make an Order the effect of which will be to prohibit any vehicle from proceeding in that length of Kingswood Avenue, Cannock from its junction with Langdale Road in a generally south-easterly direction for a distance of approximately 40 metres unless the vehicle is being used in connection with the works; or unless the vehicle requires access to premises on the length of road or is being used for police, fire brigade or ambulance purposes. Pedestrian access will be maintained.
The preferred alternative route for traffic will be available via Langdale Drive, Spinney Farm Road, Wellington Drive, Wolverhampton Road and vice versa.
The Order will come into operation on 18th April 2016, and the said works will commence on or as near as practicable to that date. It is anticipated that the works will be completed by 1st May 2016.
The Order will remain in force for a period of 18 months or until the gas main replacement works, which it is proposed to carry out on or near the road, have been completed, whichever is the earlier.
John Tradewell, Director for Strategy, Governance and Change 2 Staffordshire Place, Tipping Street, Stafford, ST16 2DH.

Maria is congratulated on a previous success

Maria spends hours practising

Still close – Maria with her cousin Ronnie O'Sullivan

Cue Ronnie's cousin who wants to Rocket ahead

AS one member of the family continues to make the news, Maria Catalano is hoping she will be a headline act in April.

The 33-year-old from Netherton will be striving to win her first world snooker championship after finishing runner-up on five occasions – just a couple of weeks before her cousin Ronnie O'Sullivan bids for his sixth crown at the famous Crucible venue in Sheffield.

Catalano's shot at glory will take place in the more low-key surroundings of the Northern Snooker Centre in Leeds as the women's game fights to break down the barriers of a male-dominated sport.

Encourage

But the current world No. 4 is hoping that the days where the ladies' efforts are overlooked will soon be a thing of the past. The World Ladies Billiards and Snooker Limited (WLBS) was formed last year to encourage participation from grassroots level and raise the profile of the women's game, joining forces with the World Professional Billiards and Snooker Association.

Dudley's world No. 1 – and Catalano's close friend – Reanne Evans caused a stir last year when she pushed former world champion Ken Doherty in a 10-8 loss in the qualifying event for last year's world championships. And Hong Kong's Ng On Yee will be in the qualifying tournament this time around.

"The WLBS has been formed and the World Professional Billiards and Snooker Association have taken us under their wing," said Catalano, who plays on the local circuit for West Midlands Police in the Stourbridge League and Woodfield in the West Midlands League.

"The ladies' game has struggled since it started, really. The difference in prize money is crazy."

"The ladies' game has struggled since it started, really. The women's game needs more exposure and they seem to have big plans. The difference in prize money is crazy. For our world championships it was £1,500 for the winner last year – the men's was £300,000."

For the time being Catalano has to be content with chasing the meagre offerings in tournaments around the country while working for the family business, Antonio's Ice Cream.

"I have never been able to take the game full-time because I have never had a sponsor," she added.

Her love of the game is obvious. "I was about five or six and I remember having a snooker table cake for my birthday," she laughed.

"Obviously my family were interested in the sport with Ronnie playing. I saw him doing well and earning a few quid and thought I want to try that. We all used to watch it on the TV and I was a big Steve Davis fan."

While her friends were out and about, Catalano was chalking up the hours on the green baize. "I started to play at Brierley Hill Snooker Club and that was it. I played every single night. I fell in love with it straight away."

Even success on the American pool circuit failed to tempt her away. "I won the Florida State Championships, which is a big event, and qualified for the US Open. But pool is not for me."

And Catalano, who beat her idol Davis in an exhibition match last year and teamed up with Evans to defeat Shaun Murphy and Mark Selby in a promotional event last month, has never felt out of place among male team-mates and opponents.

A few tips from O'Sullivan helped along the way and the pair are still in regular contact.

"He is just very special. I would say he is the best ever. I know he causes a bit of controversy now and again, but he is a genius."

Catalano will be cheering O'Sullivan on at the Crucible as usual, but for now is focused on her own shot at world glory after missing last year.

"The ambition is still there and I am going to win it one day, definitely."

Wins keep up the push for play-off spot

Chasetown 1 Stafford Rangers 0
CHASETOWN kept up their push for the play-offs with a victory that stunned league leaders and local rivals Stafford Rangers in front of a bumper bank holiday crowd of 549.

The Scholars had a glorious chance inside the opening minute as Kev Hemagou rushed through on goal and Stafford cleared the danger through Levi Read as the striker went past goalkeeper Adam Whitehouse. Paul Sullivan then should have given the home side the lead, volleying over the bar from close range.

Stafford pushed forward on a number of occasions, but Chasetown's defence stood resilient against the league leaders, preventing the table-toppers from getting a clear sight at goal.

With 10 minutes left, Boro's Ben Haseley got ahead of his defender to power a header towards the bottom corner but somehow John Bateman got down to claw away his effort and then recovered to make an even better save to keep out the rebound.

Five minutes from the end, Mike Williams drove the ball across the six-yard box and Nick Turton left the ball for substitute Stan Mugisha, who fired home from close range against his former club.

Market Drayton Town 0 Chasetown 3
THIS impressive win in Shropshire saw Kev Hemagou, Nick Turton and George Washbourne all firing a shot at goal in the first minute, with the hosts clinging on. In the second half, heavy rain turned to a hailstorm which negated any attacking play for a five-minute period.

Eventually, Chasetown's pressure counted and Washbourne drilled home a low shot 19 minutes from time. In the final minute a right-footed effort from Jed Davies nestled in the bottom corner, and in stoppage time, Paul Sullivan slid the ball in from a tight angle.

Hayes come from behind to go six without a defeat

Lichfield City 2 Heath Hayes 4
HAYES made it six games unbeaten in this Midland League Division One derby after coming back from two goals down.

The two teams will soon face each other in the Staffs Vase final.

City took advantage of a poor defensive mistake when David Yonwin was allowed time and space to fire into the bottom corner and were two up through Tony Clarke.

Joe Pickering pulled one back and levelled through Joe Hartshorne. Steve Allen and Pickering sealed victory.

Heath Hayes 2 Coventry United 1
HAYES thoroughly deserved this Midland League Division 1 victory after coming from behind to beat the long-time league leaders who are now demoted to third spot.

With a strong wind at their backs the visitors made a dream start after four minutes with a speculative effort from left back Ben Vallance completely deceiving home keeper Mark Wiggins.

Hayes equalised with a fine rasping 25-yard drive from Ryan Burns and Joe Hartshorne scored the winner.

Holder Smith retains Memorial Classic

Mel Evans, Greg Smith, Peter Higham, Callum Wraight and Lynn Pritchatt

GREG Smith retained the £2,000 Les Evans Memorial Bowls title at Chadsmoor Progressive WMC on Easter Monday.

Smith, who back in September took the famous Waterloo title, mastered the green to brush aside all five opponents. In the final he faced Callum Wraight, double winner of the event and current BCGBA Champion of Champions. The winner collected the £500 top prize with a 21-12 victory.

Prizes were presented by BCGBA president Peter Higham. The event was sponsored by FLOWFIT, PKB Plastering, Verite Ltd, Mel Evans MBE, Albert Redding & Lynn Pritchatt.

POINT NO HELP IN DROP FIGHT

Corby Town 0 Hednesford 0
HEDNESFORD had to settle for a point in a clash of the bottom two sides in the National League North.

But things could have been much worse if Corby had not squandered a penalty kick just before half-time.

Despite forcing a number of attacking set-pieces, the Pitmen were unable to really test Sam Donkin in the home goal.

It was from a Hednesford corner that they were nearly made to pay. After playing a short corner, the ball was cleared away by Corby. A loose pass from Jonathan Royle let in Cleveland Taylor, who, picked out Greg Mills but his shot was cleared off the line by Shelton Payne.

Just when it looked as if the danger had passed, Kennedy Digie tripped Ben Milnes in the box to give away a penalty. Mills stepped up but he blasted his effort well wide of the right-hand upright.

The first chance of the second period came three minutes in as a corner fell to Ben Bailey but his effort whistled a foot over.

The two best chances for the Pitmen came in the 71st minute when Ngamvoulou fired in a low shot that Donkin turned away for a corner from which Glover headed over.

Hednesford's Easter Monday game at home to Worcester City was called off because of a water-logged pitch. They visit Curzon Ashton on Saturday, kick off at 3pm.

Last Wednesday night, Hednesford Town fell on penalties in the Staffordshire Senior Cup semi-final to Kidsgrove Athletic. The Pitmen made the breakthrough in the 43rd minute as Danny Glover's saved effort looped up to Tom Peers who headed home.

Former Town striker Nick Wellecome levelled in the 71st minute to force extra time.

Kidsgrove made the breakthrough in the 108th minute through Anthony Malbon but six minutes Paul Ennis set the game to penalties.

Both sides scored their first spot kick but saw their second attempts saved, with Kyle Patterson missing for the Pitmen.

The next three players from both sides found the net only for Hednesford's Phil Trainer to see his kick saved, leaving Ashley Hodgkinson to win it for his side.

Good Evans – Zac wins title

Cannock teenager Zac Evans claimed the EFK European Welterweight Championship

A CANNOCK kickboxer has won the EFK European Welterweight Championship.

Zac Evans, aged 18, was crowned after a title fight in Lincoln. He defeated French opponent Jean Marie Pierak two rounds in a seven-round fight by technical knockout (TKO) to claim the title belt at Lincoln Fight Factory.

The first round was slow-paced with both opponents gauging distances with jabs and figuring each other's fighting style out.

Evans stepped up the pressure in the second round, connecting a decisive left hook to Pierak's head before sweeping him to the ground with a kick. The combo proved too much for the French opponent who called on the referee to suspend the fight.

The title fight was also an eliminator event which means Evans will have the opportunity to fight for the PKF World Championships belt in New York City in November.

Outside of kickboxing, Evans is completing an electrical apprenticeship at Stafford College with the hope of becoming a self-employed electrician. "It's fantastic to win the European championship for the UK and bring the title back to Staffordshire," he said.

Cons remain in hunt for snooker title

CANNOCK Cons B remain in the title hunt for the Aldridge Snooker League Premier Division.

They moved into second place after beating reigning champions Wednesfield Cons A 3-2 at home in a deciding frame won by Shaun Eaton-Lees. Leaders St Johns remain on course to secure their first title as they scrambled home at relegation threatened Aldridge Cons A 3-2.

Fourth placed Q Bar A kept the pressure on for third place when they defeated struggling Stafford Road A 4-1 away. Only Keith Poston Jr could offer any resistance for the hosts.

In Division One, leaders Bentley Moor A remain on course for the title as they won 4-1 away at mid-table Amery, with solid wins for Phil Bush, Stuart Cox, Scott McGregor and Mark Archer as Amery secured a consolation frame through Mac Williams. Second-placed Wednesfield Cons B look like they are going to clinch a top flight spot as they won 4-1 at home to promotion rivals Stafford Road B thanks to wins for John Schneider, Geoff Jones, Dean Evans and Russell Powers. Stafford Road could muster only the one frame in reply through Dave Wilcox.

Blowich Memorial B, in third, also look like securing a top-flight spot next season as they despatched Essington WMC 3-2 in a deciding frame won by Martin Reilly. Essington had forced a decider through Jason Archer and Ben Nicholls after being 2-0 behind.

RESULTS

Premier Division: Golden Cuckoo 0 St Johns SC 5; Blowich Memorial A 3 Aldridge Cons B 2; Cannock Cons B 3 Wednesfield Cons A 2; Fishley Park 4 Old Hall 1; Landywood SC A 4 Pelsall Social A 1; Stafford Road A 1 Q Bar A 4; Victoria A 3 Aldridge Social Club 2; Aldridge Cons A 2 St Johns SC 3.

Leesy does it with first-half hat-trick

Penkridge 8 Walsall Phoenix 0 – Staffs County Senior League Div 2 South

JACK Leesy scored a first half hat-trick – including one in the opening minute – as Penkridge cruised to victory, making it nine wins out of nine.

Four goals came in each half with Tom Ranford also in target in the first 45 minutes.

Second half strikes came from Frankie Wynn, on as a sub for Leesy, Ash Turton, Alex Beckett and John Hodnett.

Penkridge return to cup action this weekend with a trip to Premier Division side Cheadle Town in the semi-final of the Leek Cup.
